CASE NO. 08cv1620-WQH-RBB
ORDER

HAYES, Judge:

17 The matter before the Court is the Motion for Summary Judgment filed by Plaintiff 18 Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC" or "Commission") against Defendant Ran H.
19 Furman. (Doc. # 33).

20 I. Background

21 On September 4, 2008, the SEC initiated this action by filing a Complaint in this Court.
22 (Doc. # 1). The Complaint alleges:

23 3. This case involves a fraudulent scheme by Island Pacific, Inc.
24 ('Island Pacific' or the 'Company') and its then senior management to overstate
25 the Company's financial results for the quarters ended September 30, 2003 ('Q2 26 2004'), and December 31, 2003 ('Q3 2004'), and its fiscal year ended March 31, 27 2004 ('FY 2004'). The Company's senior management responsible for the fraud were defendants Barry M. Schechter ..., a controlling person and de facto Chief Executive Officer; Ran H. Furman ..., the Chief Financial Officer; and Harvey Braun ..., the Chief Executive Officer.

28 4. In Q2 2004, Schechter, Furman and Braun caused Island Pacific to improperly record and report $3.9 million in revenue from a sham transaction

1 with an Australian software company, QQQ Systems Pty Limited ('QQQ'). The 2 transaction had no economic substance or business purpose and instead was 3 entered into in order to artificially inflate Island Pacific's revenues reported in 4 its financial statements. Subsequently, in the third quarter, Island Pacific
 5 improperly recorded an offsetting transaction whereby it purchased from QQQ 6 $3.9 million of software. In fact, no contract finalizing this offsetting transaction was signed until the fourth quarter. Island Pacific and QQQ never exchanged any money as a result of these offsetting agreements. In addition, neither Island Pacific nor QQQ made any effort to sell the other's software or to determine the fair market value of their software licensing rights as required by applicable accounting principles.

7 5. As a result of improperly recognizing and reporting the $3.9 8 million as revenue, Island Pacific overstated its revenues by 140% for Q2 2004, 9 29% for the nine months ending Q3 2004, and 22% for the 2004 fiscal year, and 10 reported a small profit instead of a massive loss for Q2 2004. The defendants 11 also failed to disclose the sham nature of the QQQ transaction and actively 12 concealed their fraud from Island Pacific's outside auditors, and the public, by 13 creating forged and/or fabricated documents which they used in an attempt to demonstrate that the recognition of revenue from the transaction was proper.
 Additionally, Furman fired a company whistleblower who expressed concern in an email that the offsetting transactions were 'structured in a manner that is intended to inflate revenues for the purpose of boosting the corporation's share price.'

14 6. As part of the fraudulent scheme, Schechter sold 637,750 shares of Island Pacific stock, receiving $488,410 in ill-gotten gains.

15 7. By engaging in this conduct, the defendants variously violated and 16 aided and abetted violations of the antifraud, issuer reporting and record-17 keeping, internal controls, and prohibition against misrepresentations to 18 accountants provisions of the federal securities laws. The Commission seeks to obtain injunctions from future violations, civil penalties, and officer and director bars against Schechter, Furman, and Braun, and additionally to obtain disgorgement of ill-gotten gains from Schechter.

19 (Doc. # 1 ¶¶ 3-7). The Complaint alleges the following claims: (1) fraud in the offer or sale 20 of securities against Schechter pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 77q(a); (2) fraud in connection with the 21 purchase or sale of securities against all Defendants pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b); (3)
 22 violations of issuer reporting requirements against Defendant Retail Pro, Inc. formerly known
 23 as Island Pacific, Inc. ("Island Pacific") and aiding and abetting issuer reporting violations 24 against the individual Defendants pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78m(a); (4) record-keeping 25 violations against all Defendants pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 78m(b)(2)(A) and related regulations;
 26 (5) misrepresentations to accountants against the individual Defendants pursuant to 17 C.F.R.
 27 § 240.13b2-2; (6) internal control violations against all Defendants pursuant to 15 U.S.C. § 28 78m(b)(2)(B) and related regulations; and (7) false certification violations against Furman and

1 Braun pursuant to 17 C.F.R. § 240.13a-14.

2 On September 4, 2008, Defendants Schechter, Braun and Island Pacific each entered
3 appearances, waived service of process, and consented to the entry of final judgment. (Doc.
4 # 3, 4, 5). The consent to the entry of final judgment signed by Schechter states:

5 Without admitting or denying the allegations of the complaint ..., Defendant
6 hereby consents to the entry of the Final Judgment in the form attached hereto
7 ..., which ... permanently enjoins and restrains Defendant from [Securities Act]
8 violation[s] ...; ... orders Defendant to pay disgorgement in the amount of $488,410 ...; ... orders Defendant to pay a civil penalty in the amount of $120,000 ...; and ... bars Defendant from serving as an officer or director of a public company for a period of ten years....

9 (Doc. # 5 ¶ 2). The consent to the entry of final judgment signed by Braun states:

10 Without admitting or denying the allegations of the complaint ..., Defendant
11 hereby consents to the entry of the Final Judgment in the form attached hereto
12 ..., which ... permanently enjoins and restrains Defendant from [Securities Act]
13 violation[s] ...; ... orders Defendant to pay a civil penalty in the amount of $75,000 ...; and ... bars Defendant from serving as an officer or director of a public company for a period of five years....

14 (Doc. # 4 ¶ 2). The consent to the entry of final judgment signed by Island Pacific's general 15 counsel states: "Without admitting or denying the allegations of the complaint ..., Defendant 16 hereby consents to the entry of the Final Judgment in the form attached hereto ..., which ...
17 permanently enjoins and restrains Defendant from [Securities Act] violation[s]" (Doc. # 18 3 ¶ 2).

19 On October 8, 2008, Furman filed an Answer to the Complaint and Jury Demand.
20 (Doc. # 9).

21 On October 15, 2008, the Court entered final judgments against Island Pacific, 22 Schechter and Braun, pursuant to Rule 54(b) of the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. (Doc.
23 # 12, 14, 16).

24 On August 10, 2009, the SEC filed the Motion for Summary Judgment against Furman, 25 the sole remaining Defendant. (Doc. # 33).

26 On September 14, 2009, Furman filed a response in opposition to the Motion for 27 Summary Judgment. (Doc. # 36). On September 16, 2009, Furman filed Objections to the 28 SEC's evidence proffered in support of the Motion for Summary Judgment. (Doc. # 40).

On September 25, 2009, the SEC filed a reply. (Doc. # 41).

On October 13, 2009, the Court heard oral argument on the Motion for Summary Judgment. (Doc. # 43).

II. Facts

A. The Parties

At all relevant times, Island Pacific, a Delaware Corporation, was headquartered in Irvine, California, and also had offices in La Jolla, California. (Undisputed Fact # 5).¹ During all relevant times, Island Pacific developed and sold computer software to the retail industry. (Id.) During the relevant period, Island Pacific's common stock was registered with the Commission pursuant to Section 12(b) of the Exchange Act and traded on the American Stock Exchange. (Id.)

Defendant Schechter founded Island Pacific (then known as SVI Solutions, Inc.) in 1994 and, at various times, has been its Chief Executive Officer ("CEO") and its Chairman of the Board of Directors. (Undisputed Fact # 6). During the relevant period, Schechter was designated as a consultant to Island Pacific. (Id.) Defendant Braun was Island Pacific's CEO from April 2003 to April 2004, and the Chairman of the Board of Directors from July 2003 to February 2004. (Undisputed Fact # 7). Braun and Steven Beck, Island Pacific's President, were the "daily operators" of Island Pacific during the relevant time. (Furman Test. at 52, Furman Ex. 77).

Defendant Furman was a CPA in Washington State but allowed his CPA license to expire in 1993. (Undisputed Fact # 3). From 1990 to 1992, Furman worked for the accounting firm Deloitte & Touche, where he participated in audits of public companies. (Id.) From approximately 2001 to 2003, Furman was Chief Financial Officer ("CFO") of Edigital, a public company. (Undisputed Fact # 2). Furman was the CFO of Island Pacific from September 2003 to January 2005. (Undisputed Fact # 1).

¹ In support of the Motion for Summary Judgment, the SEC submitted a Statement of Material Facts in a numbered-paragraph format. (Doc. # 33-3). Furman submitted a Statement of Genuine Issues of Material Fact responding to each numbered paragraph in the SEC's Statement of Material Facts. (Doc. # 36-2). Any paragraph in the Statement of Material Facts which is not disputed by Furman and is supported by the cited evidence is cited herein as an "Undisputed Fact."

B. License Agreement

In September 2003, Island Pacific and QQQ, a newly-formed Australian corporation, negotiated a software license agreement (the “License Agreement”). (Furman Decl., Doc. # 36-3, ¶ 16; Furman Dep. at 74, Pl.’s Ex. 3).² Defendant Schechter negotiated the License Agreement on behalf of Island Pacific, and Shaun Rosen, the CEO of QQQ, negotiated the License Agreement on behalf of QQQ. (Rosen Dep. at 43, Furman Ex. 3; Furman Decl., Doc. # 36-2, ¶ 16). Furman had no involvement in the negotiation of the License Agreement. (Rosen Dep. at 43-44, Furman Ex. 3; Furman Decl. ¶ 16, Doc. # 36-2).

On September 25, 2003, Defendant Braun sent Rosen a letter, which states:

This letter serves to confirm that Island Pacific is currently in negotiations with QQQ to acquire the rights to certain intellectual property owned and held by QQQ.

Island Pacific is simultaneously negotiating the sale of its point of sale division to QQQ and has completed the sale of an unrestricted license to QQQ of Island Pacific’s enterprise application, version 1.5.

This letter further confirms that the payment terms extended to QQQ for the sale of version 1.5 will be changed to coincide with the closing of the other transactions contemplated in this letter, when completed.

(Pl.’s Ex. 10 at 222; Rosen Dep. at 75, Pl.’s Ex. 6). Schechter asked Braun to sign the letter; Braun “presume[d]” that the letter was drafted by Schechter. (Braun Dep. at 17-18, Moser Decl. Ex. 2, Doc. # 41-4). Rosen testified that he has never spoken to Braun, and he has not had “any contact whatsoever with Furman.” (Rosen Dep. at 44, 76, Pl.’s Ex. 6). Furman states in his affidavit:

In 2003, I had no knowledge of a letter dated September 25, 2003 from Braun to Shaun Rosen.... I was never told that there was an agreement or letter sent to Mr. Rosen that indicated payments due from QQQ would coincide with payments due to QQQ. The first time I saw or had knowledge of such a letter ... was when the SEC presented it to me for review while taking my investigative testimony in March 2007.

(Furman Decl., Doc. # 36-3, ¶ 14).

Furman signed a version of the License Agreement on behalf of Island Pacific. (Pl.’s

² All cited exhibits submitted by the SEC are cited as “Pl.’s Ex.” and are located at Docket number 34. All cited exhibits submitted by Furman are cited as “Furman Ex.” and are located at Docket number 36.

Ex. 8 at 197; Furman Dep. at 79-80, Pl.'s Ex. 3). The version of the License Agreement signed by Furman granted QQQ a non-exclusive license to distribute Island Pacific's "Host Retail Merchandising Program" software ("Host software") in Australia and New Zealand.³ (Pl.'s Ex. 8 at 194-98).

The SEC contends:

Although Furman, on behalf of Island Pacific, and Shaun Rosen ..., on behalf of QQQ, signed the same signature page of the License Agreement, Rosen signed a different version of the License Agreement than the one pursuant to which revenue was recognized by Island Pacific. Specifically, according to the terms of the License Agreement executed by QQQ, QQQ agreed to pay Island Pacific, at QQQ's option, either: (1) $3.25 million in two equal installments of $1.625 million on November 15, 2003, and December 31, 2003; or (2) 20% of QQQ's net sublicensing fees to a maximum of $4 million. In contrast, Exhibit B to the License Agreement which bears the signatures of both Rosen and Furman provided that QQQ would pay both (1) $3.25 million in two equal installments of $1.625 million on November 15, 2003 and December 31, 2003; and (2) per copy royalty payments for a period of thirty-six months. Unlike the rest of the License Agreement, Exhibit B to the latter version does not bear the fax footprint which is on each of the remaining pages, and which sets forth the date of September 29, 2003, the name "Shaun Rosen," and Rosen's home fax number. In fact, Rosen never agreed to the terms set forth in this version of Exhibit B.

(SEC's Statement of Material Facts ¶ 10 (emphasis in original) (citing Pl.'s Ex. 6, Rosen Dep. at 50-51, 67-69; Pl.'s Ex. 7; Pl.'s Ex. 8), Doc. # 33-3).

Furman contends:

Shaun Rosen ... in fact did agree to the terms requiring payment of (1) $3.25M and (2) royalty payments of 10% for 36 mos. as evidenced by his signature to the ... License ... Agreement entered into September 19, 2003. [Pl.'s Ex. 8] is a separate agreement from [Pl.'s Ex. 7] evidenced by the fact that there is no colon after the word 'By' on the signature page of [Pl.'s Ex. 8], while there is a colon in the same location in [Pl.'s Ex. 7]. Furman is certain that when [Island Pacific] recorded revenue for the License Agreement for the quarter ended September 30, 2003, that [Island Pacific] had a signed agreement documenting the $3.9 million sale price.

(Furman's Statement of Genuine Issues at 5 (emphasis in original) (citing Pl.'s Ex. 7; Pl.'s Ex. 8; Furman Decl. ¶ 13 ("When [Island Pacific] recorded revenue for the Second Quarter 2004, I believed that [Island Pacific] had an agreement signed during that quarter documenting the

³ According to Rosen, the Host software is the software referenced in Braun's September 25, 2003 letter as "Island Pacific's enterprise application, version 1.5." (Rosen Dep. at 76, Pl.'s Ex. 6). Rosen testified that he envisioned QQQ distributing Island Pacific's Host software to the largest retailers in Australia. (Rosen Dep. at 46-47, Furman Ex. 3).

1 $3.9 million sale price.”), Doc. # 36-2; Pl.’s Ex. 35)).⁴

2 On September 30, 2003, Island Pacific shipped software to QQQ in accordance with 3 the License Agreement. (Rosen Dep. at 62, Pl.’s Ex. 6.) Furman believed this shipment
4 included “both the Host Retail Merchandise Software and the Direct Software,” and “the cost
5 of the shipment was included in the $3.9 million dollar software sales price.” (Furman Decl.,
6 ¶ 15, Doc. # 36-3).

7 On October 3, 2003, Furman sent an email to Schechter and Braun with a subject line, 8 “Revenue forecast for Q2,” which states: “Currently, we have booked $5.22mm revenues for 9 the quarter (including $3.25mm for QQQ).” (Pl.’s Ex. 11).

10 On October 10, 2003, Furman sent an email to Schechter. (Pl.’s Ex. 12). Attached to 11 the email is an unsigned copy of the License Agreement, which grants QQQ a license to 12 distribute two Island Pacific programs, “Host” and “Direct,” and provides that QQQ agrees to 13 pay Island Pacific $3.05 million for Host and $650,000 for Direct, payable in two equal 14 installments due on November 15, and December 31, 2003, plus 10% of QQQ’s net
15 sublicensing fees. (Pl.’s Ex. 12 at 233). Furman’s email to Schechter states:

16 Barry, in the spirit (and language) of the original executed document, the only
17 thing we did was change Exhibit A and B to broaden the definition of ‘Software’
18 to include Direct, in addition to [Island Pacific] Host. Exhibit B (License and 19 Royalties) also has 2 sections to it - [Island Pacific] Host and Direct. Since 20 everything else is the same and consistent, this is the easiest and I believe the 21 cleanest way to do this. If you want us to change it, please let us know.

22 (Pl.’s Ex. 12 at 227).

23 October 10, 2003, Joseph Dietzler, Island Pacific’s Contract Administrator, sent an 24 email to Furman and Schechter stating, “Gents, Please ensure that the attached version of the 25 QQQ license is used. The only changes are to the Exhibits and the exec summary. No one had 26 advised me that the Merchandising license fee was increased from 3,050,000 to 3,250,000.

27 ⁴ Plaintiff’s Exhibit 7 is a copy of the License Agreement signed only by Rosen and 28 providing that QQQ agreed to pay Island Pacific “a one time License Fee of $3,250,000 either
(A) in two equal installments of $1,625,000 each or (B) for a period of 36 months a royalty fee if 20% of QQQ’s sublicensing fee[s] ... to a maximum of $4 million.” (Pl.’s Ex. 7 at 184).
Plaintiff’s Exhibit 8 is a copy of the License Agreement signed by both Rosen and Furman and providing that QQQ would pay “a one time License Fee of $3,250,000 in two installments of $1,625,000 each, and for a period of 36 months an additional per copy royalty fee of 10% of QQQ’s sublicensing fee to its customers.” (Pl.’s Ex. 8 at 193).

1 When I added the Direct program to the license, I was using a draft with the old figure for 2 Merchandising.” (Furman Ex. 71 at 1098; Dietzler Test. at 17-18, Pl.’s Ex. 30). Furman 3 responded with an email to Schechter and Dietzler: “Thanks. Barry [Schechter], from my side,
 4 we have already booked $3.25mm and I plan to book the additional $650k as well. Please 5 make sure these are correct.” (Furman Ex. 71 at 1098).

6 On Friday, October 10, 2003 at 4:41 p.m., Jacqueline Tran, Island Pacific’s Controller,
 7 sent an email to Furman stating, “When can we book the additional revenue?” (Pl.’s Ex. 13A
 8 at 234; Tran Decl. ¶¶ 2-3). Furman replied to Tran three minutes later, stating: “We amended
 9 the agreement.” (Pl.’s Ex. 13A at 234). On Monday, October 13, 2003, Tran replied: “Do you 10 have the revised agreement?” (Id.) On October 13, 2003, Furman replied: “This should have 11 both parts.” (Id.) Attached to Furman’s October 13, 2003 email was an unsigned copy of the 12 License Agreement, with the same provisions as the copy attached to Furman’s October 10, 13 2003 email to Schechter, except QQQ is required to pay Island Pacific $3.25 million for Host 14 and $650,000 for Direct, payable in two equal installments due on November 15, and 15 December 31, 2003, plus 10% of QQQ’s net sublicensing fees. (Pl.’s Ex. 13A at 241).

16 Furman testified that it was his understanding that the final “sale price of $3,900,000”
 17 in the License Agreement “was arrived at prior to the close of September 30, 2003.” (Id. at 18 98). When asked if the “final sale price” was “documented as of September 30, 2003,” 19 Furman responded, “That I’m not sure of.” (Id.) Furman states in his affidavit:

20 I understood the document marked as [Pl.’s Ex. 8] to be the authoritative license
 21 agreement, as of September 30, 2003, between [Island Pacific] and QQQ
 22 Systems Pty Limited ..., with the exception that [Pl.’s Ex. 8] did not accurately
 23 represent the details of the License Agreement as negotiated between [Island
 24 Pacific] and QQQ, while [Pl.’s Ex. 13A, i.e., the version of the License
 25 Agreement attached to Furman’s October 13, 2003 e-mail to Tran] did present 26 the details of the License Agreement between [Island Pacific] and QQQ as of 27 September 20, 2003.... The License Agreement granted QQQ a license to 28 distribute both Host Retail Merchandise Software ... and the Direct Software....
 Specifically, I understood the agreed upon terms of the License Agreement, as of September 30, 2003, granted QQQ a license to distribute both Host and Direct software, and required that QQQ pay [Island Pacific] $3.25 million for Host and $650,000 for Direct (payable in two equal installments due on November 15, and December 31, 2003), plus 10% of QQQ’s net sublicensing fees.... When [Island Pacific] recorded revenue for the Second Quarter 2004, I believed [Island
 Pacific] had an agreement signed during that quarter documenting the $3.9 million sale price.

“As far as [Furman] knew,” QQQ was a newly formed corporation with no payment history with Island Pacific. (Furman Dep. at 74, Pl.’s Ex. 3). Furman did not review QQQ’s financial statements or perform any other due diligence to determine whether QQQ had any ability to pay the $3.9 million. (Furman Dep. at 19, 22 & 40, Pl.’s Ex. 3.) Instead, Furman relied on representations by Schechter that the funds were collectable from QQQ. (Id. at 20-21; Furman Decl., Doc. # 36-3, ¶ 16). In September 2003, Schechter told Furman:

(1) that he had known Mr. Rosen (the CEO of QQQ) and the principals of QQQ for many years, and that they had done business together; (2) that Mr. Rosen was a majority shareholder in QQQ and had made a large investment into QQQ; (3) that Mr. Rosen was a very wealthy individual; and (4) that QQQ was looking to grow into a larger company.

(Furman Decl., Doc. # 36-3, ¶ 16). “As of September 2003, [Furman] believed that (1) QQQ had access to sufficient funds to honor the terms of the License Agreement on the required due dates, (2) ... QQQ intended to pay, and (3) ... Rosen had the ability to pay on behalf of QQQ, if needed.” (Id. ¶ 17). Rosen testified that he could not recall having entered into an agreement with Island Pacific to pay $650,000 for Island Pacific’s Direct software. (Rosen Dep. at 73, Pl.’s Ex. 6). Rosen testified that QQQ “never had that kind of cash” necessary to pay a $3.9 million invoice. (Id. at 66).

On November 11, 2003, Braun, Furman and Tran signed a management representation letter sent to Island Pacific’s auditors in connection with the auditors’ review of the Company’s financial statements for its quarter ended September 30, 2003 (i.e., Q2 2004). (Furman Dep. at 168-69; Pl.’s Ex. 19.) The letter states:

We confirm, to the best of our knowledge and belief, the following representations made to you during your review:

1. The interim financial information ... is presented in accordance with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States
6. We have no knowledge of any fraud or suspected fraud affecting the Company involving Management ... [or] Employees who have significant roles in internal controls....
12. There are no material transactions that have not been properly recorded in the accounting records underlying the interim financial information....

(Pl.’s Ex. 19 at 801-02).

1 On November 12, 2003, Island Pacific filed its quarterly report on Form 10-Q with the 2 SEC for its quarter ended September 30, 2003 (i.e., Q2 2004). (Pl.'s Ex. 15). Tran provided
3 "the numbers that [Island Pacific] put in the [Form 10-Q]" and then Furman supplied "pretty 4 much all the verbiage" in Island Pacific's Form 10-Q. (Furman Test. at 57, Pl.'s Ex. 4).
5 Furman signed the Form 10-Q, and signed a required certification which asserted that to his 6 knowledge: (1) the Form 10-Q did not contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit 7 to state a material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in light of the 8 circumstances under which such statements were made, not misleading; and (2) the Form 10-Q 9 fairly presented, in all material respects, Island Pacific's financial condition and results of 10 operations. (Id. at 180-81; Pl.'s Ex. 15 at 416-17, 419). Island Pacific's Q2 2004 Form 10-Q
11 disclosed that the transaction with QQQ accounted for 46% of Island Pacific's accounts 12 receivable, and 32% of Island Pacific's net sales for the six months ended September 30, 2003, 13 and represented that the License Agreement was a one-time transaction. (Pl.'s Ex. 15 at 368, 14 395).

15 After the market closed on November 12, 2003, at or about 4:00 p.m. Eastern Standard
16 Time ("EST"), Island Pacific announced its Q2 2004 financial results in a press release
17 headlined "Company Reports 76% Increase in Revenues," which represented that Island 18 Pacific earned $6.7 million in revenues—a 76% increase over revenues of $3.8 million for the 19 same period in the previous year. (Pl.'s Ex. 20; Undisputed Fact # 31). Island Pacific also 20 reported gross profit (revenues minus cost of goods sold) of $5.6 million, and income from 21 continuing operations of $699,000. (Undisputed Fact # 31).

22 When Island Pacific issued a press release "that had some numbers attached to them," 23 Tran "supplied the numbers to [Furman] ... and then a lot of times [Furman wrote] a lot of the 24 verbiage concerning ... just the numbers themselves." (Furman Dep. at 68, Pl.'s Ex. 4). In his 25 affidavit, Furman states:

26 I was only partially involved in the drafting of the [earnings] press releases, as 27 I received input, assistance and final approval from other parties.... Any figures 28 I inserted into [Island Pacific]'s press releases for [Island Pacific]'s Second Quarter 2004, Third Quarter 2004 and Fiscal Year End 2004 were those taken from the financial statements, account reconciliations and/or draft 10-Qs or 10-Ks that had already been reviewed and signed off by the auditors....

As another ‘check and balance,’ [Island Pacific]’s Chief Executive Officer, attorneys, [Island Pacific] audit committee, auditors at SingerLewak and others would review and sign-off on both the earnings press releases and final 10-Qs and 10-Ks prior to publication. The figures inserted into IP’s Second Quarter 2004, Third Quarter 2004 and Fiscal Year End 2004 public filings were all reviewed and signed-off on by the auditors and all of the above listed, including Mr. Schechter and Harvey Braun.

(Furman Decl. ¶¶ 9-10, Doc. # 36-3; see also Tran Decl. ¶¶ 5-6, Doc. # 36-4 (same)).

On November 12, 2003, at 4:30 p.m. EST, Island Pacific broadcast an earnings conference call with securities analysts and shareholders over the Internet. (Compl. ¶ 24, Doc. # 1; Furman Answer ¶ 24, Doc. # 9.) Furman was present and spoke during the earnings conference call. Furman spoke from a script, which he drafted. (Furman Test. at 69, Pl.’s Ex. 4). Furman stated, in part:

We reported revenues of approximately $6.7 million, a 75.9% increase versus revenues of $3.8 million for the year-earlier period.... The increase in gross profit [from $2.2 million in the same quarter in the prior year to $5.6 million] is due primarily to an increase in higher margin software sales and a reduction in professional services....

(Pl.’s Ex. 21 at 2-3; see also Furman Test. at 177, Pl.’s Ex. 4). During the November 12, 2003 earnings conference call, Braun stated:

We showed solid sequential revenue growth during the second quarter even while we took important steps to position the company for the second half of the year to ensure that we meet the Fiscal 2004 guidance we outlined in the first quarter and are reaffirming today.... [W]e expect to report annual sales revenues of $31 to $33 million ... which is the same guidance we announced during our first quarter call. Obviously this implies that we will generate significant third and fourth quarter revenues to reach this target. We are comfortable with those expectations....

(Pl.’s Ex. 21 at 5 & 8). Braun’s comments were also from a script, which Furman, among others, reviewed in advance of the call. (Furman Test. at 70, Pl.’s Ex. 4). The QQQ transaction was not mentioned during the conference call. (Furman Test. at 178, Pl.’s Ex. 4).

On November 13, the day following the positive earnings release, Island Pacific’s stock closed at $2.25, up 8.2% from the prior day’s close, and trading volume increased to 1.75 million shares, up from the prior five-day average trading volume of 100,160 shares. (Undisputed Fact # 37).

C. Sublicense Agreement

Island Pacific and QQQ negotiated an agreement (“Sublicense Agreement”) whereby

1 Island Pacific agreed to purchase a sublicense to market QQQ's "Pyramid" software for $3.9
2 million "payable on the Effective Date in the form of a set off against indebtedness of QQQ 3 to [Island Pacific], plus revenue sharing..." (Undisputed Fact # 38; Pl.'s Ex. 24 at 858). The 4 Sublicense Agreement is signed by Rosen on behalf of QQQ and Steven Beck, Island Pacific's
5 President, on behalf of Island Pacific. (Pl.'s Ex. 24 at 867). The Sublicense Agreement is 6 dated December 14, 2003, and states that its effective date is December 31, 2003. (Id. at 854-7 55).

8 As early as August 26, 2003 (prior to Furman joining Island Pacific), Schechter and 9 Beck were interested in pursuing the Pyramid software for Island Pacific. (Furman Ex. 59).
10 By September of 2003, Beck was directing Island Pacific employees to include the Pyramid 11 software in Island Pacific's proposals to potential clients. (Furman Ex. 60, 61; Malik Dep. at 12 183, Furman Ex. 58). On September 16, 2003, Defendant Braun, Island Pacific's CEO, sent 13 an email to multiple Island Pacific employees (but not Furman) referencing the "under 14 development" "Pyramid system," and stating that Beck "is going to drive this oppty [sic]."
15 (Furman Ex. 65 at 1065). According to Rosen, Island Pacific was selling the Pyramid software 16 "into Island Pacific's customer base even before the [Sublicense] [A]greement was finalized."
17 (Rosen Dep. at 195, Furman Ex. 3). QQQ's Pyramid software, version 1.0 was released in 18 March of 2004. (Pl.'s Ex. 46 at 1408). As of March of 2004, version 1.1 of the Pyramid
19 software, known as "The Island Pacific Version," was due in November of 2004. (Id.) 20 However, "in the software industry people sell software that they don't have [because it's still 21 under development]." (Malik Dep. at 181-82, Furman Ex. 58).

22 On January 16, 2004, Rosen sent Schechter an email, which stated: "1st draft of 23 pyramid technology agreement[.] [L]et me have your comments." (Pl.'s Ex. 23 at 837).
24 Attached to the email is an undated and unsigned version of the Sublicense Agreement, which 25 contains different terms from the signed version dated December 14, 2003. (Id.). The "Sub-26 Licensing Fee" in the unsigned version is twenty million South African Rands. (Id. at 843).

27 On January 28, 2004, Tran, Island Pacific's Controller, sent Furman an email, with the 28 subject "QQQ", which stated: "Do you have the latest copy so we can prepare the journal entry?” (Pl.’s Ex. 26 at 879). On the same day, Furman forwarded Tran’s email to Joseph Dietzler, Island Pacific’s Contract Administrator, and asked him to forward “what you have for QQQ [to Tran] so she can book it”; and Dietzler responded to Tran, copying Furman, by forwarding an unsigned copy of the Sublicense Agreement (which is dated December 14, 2003 and contains the same terms as the signed version of the Sublicense Agreement). (Id.)

Furman testified that, “based on” the evidence recounted above, it does not “seem possible that there could have been a final agreement on December 31, 2003.” (Furman Test. at 143, Pl.’s Ex. 5). However, Furman states in his affidavit: “I believed that the Technology Purchase Agreement between QQQ and [Island Pacific] (‘Pyramid Sublicense Agreement’) dated December 14, 2003 was finalized prior to December 31, 2003.... I was not aware that a ‘first draft’ of the Pyramid Sublicense Agreement was being circulated in January 2004.” (Furman Decl. ¶¶ 18-19, Doc. # 36-3).

In a note initialed by auditors Sally Aubury and Marc Abrams on February 11, 2004, Aubrey wrote that “On 12/31/03 QQQ sold the licensing rights to market and sell Pyramid POS software in Europe and the U.S. to [Island Pacific],” and “Consideration was as follows[:] $3.9M (Paid by offsetting cost of technology against O/S.” (Furman Ex. 25 at 482; Aubury Dep. at 108-11, Furman Ex. 13).

The Sublicense Agreement was recorded in Island Pacific’s books and records as a $3.9 million asset, crediting (i.e., eliminating) the $3.9 million account receivable from QQQ based on the License Agreement. (Furman Test. at 137, Pl.’s Ex. 5). At the time, Furman thought “[i]t was odd” that “the product that Island Pacific was acquiring from QQQ was worth 3.9 million, which was the same amount as what Island Pacific was selling to QQQ.” (Furman Dep. at 39-40, Pl.’s Ex. 3). According to Furman, “[a]t the same time, there was an agreement with QQQ on the Pyramid [software] ... that spelled it out that Island Pacific is buying this for 3.9 million.” (Id. at 40). Furman states in his affidavit:

The License Agreement and the Pyramid Sublicense Agreement were independent and separate agreements. When [Island Pacific] booked the License Agreement, I understood the transaction to be a firm and final sale not contingent on any other agreements. When [Island Pacific] purchased the Pyramid software via the Pyramid License Agreement, I believed that [Island Pacific] was acquiring an asset to be marketed internationally.

(Furman Decl. ¶ 20, Doc. # 36-3).

Joseph Dietzler was Island Pacific's Contract Administrator from September 2003 through February 2004. (Dietzler Test. at 17-18, Pl.'s Ex. 30). Dietzler was licensed as an attorney in Illinois, although he was not employed by Island Pacific as an attorney and he had no accounting expertise. (Id. at 17; Dietzler Dep. at 33-34, Furman Ex. 78). Dietzler reported directly to Furman. (Dietzler Test. at 22, Pl.'s Ex. 30; Furman Test. at 155, Pl.'s Ex. 5). On multiple occasions, Dietzler disagreed with Steven Beck, Island Pacific's President. (Dietzler Dep. at 55-56, Furman Ex. 78). Dietzler testified that "Steve was a hothead and I will pound anybody who is a hothead.... If you're being irrational, I'm going to tell you, 'You're out of line. You're irrational and you need to start thinking correctly.'" (Id. at 55).

On February 4, 2004, Dietzler, wrote an email to Furman, Schechter, Braun, Beck and one other Island Pacific employee. (Pl.'s Ex. 28). The subject of Dietzler's email was "Revenue Recognition." (Id. at 906). The email states:

I have continuing concern[] that certain transactions involving the company QQQ appear to be structured in a manner that is intended to inflate revenues for the purpose of boosting the corporation's share price. The 'sale' to QQQ under the agreement entered into in late September 2003 creates such an appearance for the following reasons:

- Substantial up-front fee for a distribution license, rather than a royalty stream
- Revenue from the transaction comprises approximately 50% of entire quarter's revenue
- Entered into at the close of a quarter in which revenues would have been far short of estimates, if not for the single transaction with QQQ
- Extended payment terms were granted
- To date, no payments have been received and are well past due

Under another transaction, QQQ is selling product ownership and distribution rights to Island Pacific, and QQQ is to be compensated, in part, through debt forgiveness in amount roughly equal to the amount of the uncollected revenue that was recognized from the September sale to QQQ. Irrespective of the legitimacy of the foregoing transactions, the totality of the surrounding circumstances creates the appearance that the transactions were intended merely to boost the reportable revenue of Island Pacific in the quarter ended September 2003. Further, the timing of the second QQQ transaction is in fact in the current quarter, not the quarter ended December 31, 2003. While the second transaction is not revenue, it must be reported in the current quarter (ending March 31, 2004), as it substantially impacts the corporation's receivables.

To ensure compliance with financial reporting rules, it would seem

1 prudent that revenue recognition policies err on the conservative side, so as to 2 avoid even the appearance of irregularity. Such practices will help ensure that 3 the activities of the company do not precipitate potential allegations of improper 4 accounting. I believe the transactions involving QQQ should be restructured in 5 a manner that makes each entirely independent of the other. As payment has not 6 [been] received for the September 2003 sale, that situation should be dealt with 7 in accordance with routine accounting standards. I recommend that these 8 transactions be given careful reconsideration by both senior management and the 9 company's outside audit firm prior to release of any earnings report for the 10 quarter ended December 31, 2003.

11 (Id.) "Prior to ... writing the e-mail," Dietzler "made it clear to" Furman "that [Dietzler] felt 12 uncomfortable with all the negotiations that were happening between Island Pacific and QQQ."
 13 (Furman Test. at 156, Pl.'s Ex. 5). Furman understood that Dietzler was "alleging that there 14 was a potential fraud." (Furman Dep. at 78, Pl.'s Ex. 3). Furman testified: "[Dietzler] talks 15 about irrespective of [the] legitimacy of the foregoing transactions. ... [Dietzler] brought up 16 the fact that ... it looks weird rather than these are just made-up transactions." (Id.)

17 On the day Deitzler sent this email, Schechter sent an email to each of the recipients of 18 Dietzler's email stating that Schechter and Furman "are taking care of this." (Pl.'s Ex. 29 at 19 907). In his email, Schechter "asks that you do nothing until [Schechter] is able to speak with 20 you personally." (Id.)

21 Furman testified that, on February 5, 2004 (i.e., the day after Dietzler sent his email), 22 Dietzler "gave ... notice and I believe we actually ended up laying him off to make sure he 23 collect[ed] unemployment when he left." (Furman Test. at 166, Pl.'s Ex. 5). On February 5, 24 2004, Furman signed a Separation Agreement and General Release of Claims whereby Island 25 Pacific agreed to pay Dietzler a lump sum equaling four months salary (minus taxes) within 26 eight days of execution of the Separation Agreement. (Furman Test. at 168, Pl.'s Ex. 5; Pl.'s 27 Ex. 31 at 917.) In exchange, Dietzler agreed to release all claims against Island Pacific, to 28 maintain "absolute confidentiality" of the Separation Agreement, and not to make or publish
 "derogatory" statements about Island Pacific. (Pl.'s Ex. 31 at 917, 919.)

On February 12, 2004, Braun (Island Pacific's CEO), Furman and Tran (Island Pacific's Controller) signed a management representation letter which was sent to Island Pacific's auditors, SingerLewak, in connection with the auditors' review of the Island Pacific's financial statements for its quarter ended December 31, 2003 (i.e., Q3 2004). (Furman Test. at 57, Pl.'s

1 Ex. 5; Pl.'s Ex. 32). The letter states:

2 We confirm, to the best of our knowledge and belief, the following 3 representations made to you during your review:

- 4 1. The interim financial information ... is presented in accordance with 5 accounting principles generally accepted in the United States
- 6 4. There are no significant deficiencies, including material weaknesses, in 7 the design or operation of internal controls which could adversely affect 8 the Company's ability to record, process, summarize, and report interim 9 financial data....
- 10 6. We have no knowledge of any fraud or suspected fraud affecting the 11 Company involving Management ... [or] Employees who have significant 12 roles in internal controls....
- 13 7. We have no knowledge of any allegations of fraud or suspected fraud 14 affecting the Company received in communications from employees, [or] 15 former employees....
- 16 12. There are no material transactions that have not been properly recorded 17 in the accounting records underlying the interim financial information....

18 (Pl.'s Ex. 32 at 923-24).

19 On February 13, 2004, Island Pacific announced its Q3 2004 financial results in a press
20 release. (Pl.'s Ex. 33). In the press release, Island Pacific reported, for the three months 21 ending December 31, 2003, revenues of $5.1 million and a loss from continuing operations of 22 $346,000. (Id. at 927). In addition, Island Pacific reported, for the nine months ending 23 December 31, 2003, revenues of $17.3 million and income from continuing operations of 24 $688,000. (Id.) Furman participated in reviewing and editing the press release; in particular, 25 Furman provided the above-quoted numbers. (Furman Test. at 67-68, Pl.'s Ex. 5). Island 26 Pacific included the $3.9 million License Agreement revenue in its nine-month summary.
27 (Compl. ¶ 38, Doc. 1; Furman Answer ¶ 38, Doc. # 9).

28 On February 13, 2004, at 9:00 a.m. EST, Island Pacific broadcast an earnings conference call with securities analysts and shareholders over the Internet. (Undisputed Fact 55). Furman and Braun each spoke during the earnings conference call, and Furman participated in reviewing and editing the earnings conference call script. (Id.) Furman stated:

We reported revenues of approximately $5.1 million....

We reported a loss from continuing operations of $346,000....

1 We reported gross profits of $3.7 million.... As a percentage of revenues, gross
 2 profit increased to 72.5% from 69.5% in the year earlier period. The increase
 3 in gross profit is due primarily to a better mix of higher margin software sales 4 and a reduction in professional services....

5 For the 9 months ended December 31, 2003, we reported revenues of $17.3 6 million, a 9.3% increase versus the same period in fiscal 2003. We reported 7 income from continuing operations of $638,000 versus a loss from continuing 8 operations of $4 million for the same period last year....

9 (Id.; Pl.'s Ex. 34 at 932-33). During the same call, Braun stated:

10 I take responsibility and am personally disappointed in the performance of the 11 group for the third quarter.... It is imperative that you and the stockholders 12 understand that this is a bump in the road.... To put the situation in perspective, 13 Island Pacific lost over $40 million during a recent 3 year period and our 14 performance over the first 9 months of this year reflects a $4 million plus swing 15 in profitability....

16 (Pl.'s Ex. 34 at 933, 935-36).

17 On or about February 13, 2004, Island Pacific filed its quarterly report on Form 10-Q
 18 with the SEC for its third quarter ended December 31, 2003 (i.e., Q3 2004). (Pl.'s Ex. 16; 19 Furman Test. at 58-59, Pl.'s Ex. 5). The February 13, 2004 Form 10-Q included revenues from 20 the License Agreement. (Pl.'s Ex. 16 at 420, 428-29). Specifically, in a paragraph that 21 Furman either drafted or reviewed, the Form 10-Q states that in December 2003, Island Pacific
 22 entered into an agreement to purchase software from QQQ for $3.9 million and that the $3.9
 23 million purchase price was paid by offsetting it against the account receivable due from QQQ.
 24 (Id.; Furman Test. at 59-60, Pl.'s Ex. 5). Furman signed the Form 10-Q, and signed a required 25 certification which asserted, that to his knowledge, (1) the Form 10-Q did not contain any 26 untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary in order to make 27 the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which such statements were made, 28 not misleading; and (2) the Form 10-Q fairly presented, in all material respects, Island Pacific's financial condition and results of operations. (Pl.'s Ex. 16 at 490-91; Furman Test. at 59, Pl.'s Ex. 5).

Between Island Pacific's announcements of its Q2 2004 and Q3 2004 financial results, Island Pacific stock had traded between $1.75 and $2.90. (Undisputed Fact # 60). On February 13, the day of the third quarter earnings announcement, Island Pacific's stock closed at $1.43, down 32.5% from the prior day's close of $2.12, and more than 4.8 million shares

1 traded. (Id.). On February 17, the stock fell to $1.37, with more than 2.4 million shares traded.
2 (Id.). Island Pacific's stock price continued to decline and was trading below $1 by May 2004.
3 (Id.).

4 On March 9, 2004, Tran (Island Pacific's Controller) sent an unsigned copy of the 5 License Agreement (which states the license fee for the Host and Direct software to be $3.9 6 million plus royalties) and the Sublicense Agreement (which is dated December 14, 2003) to 7 an auditor at SingerLewak. (Pl.'s Ex. 9).

8 On March 18, 2004, Beck (Island Pacific's President) stated in an email that, "[t]he fact 9 of the matter is that we got an incredible bargain on" QQQ's Pyramid software. (Furman Ex.
10 62 at 1057; Malik Dep. at 90-91, Furman Ex. 58). On April 7, 2004, an Island Pacific 11 employee sent an email to Beck and others, indicating Island Pacific was still working with the 12 Pyramid software. (Furman Ex. 63). Furman states in his Declaration: "To my knowledge, 13 QQQ actively marketed [Island Pacific]'s product (obtained pursuant to the License 14 Agreement) and negotiating with a larger retailer in Australia who was interested in using the 15 product." (Furman Decl. ¶ 21, Doc. # 36-3).

16 On May 12, 2004, at the request of Island Pacific's auditors, Furman authored a 17 memorandum to Island Pacific's Board of Directors to "document [Furman's] understanding 18 of the QQQ transactions." (Furman Test. at 229, Pl.'s Ex. 5; Pl.'s Ex. 35). The memorandum 19 begins:

20 We've spent a lot of time detailing the events surrounding the sale of [Island
21 Pacific] software to QQQ in September 2003 and the purchase of the Pyramid 22 software from QQQ in December 2003. As you recall, the transactions were 23 recorded as follows: (i) $3.9mm in license revenues in Q2 (we had a receivable at the end of Q2) and (ii) capitalization of $3.9mm for the Pyramid assets purchased (the receivable went down to zero while the capitalized assets increased to $3.9mm).

24 (Pl.'s Ex. 35 at 945). The memorandum then details the history of Harvey Braun (CEO of 25 Island Pacific) and Steven Beck (President of Island Pacific) joining Island Pacific in 2002, 26 and Schechter and QQQ negotiating the License Agreement in 2003. (Id. at 945-46). The 27 memorandum continues:

28 In anticipation of the first payment [under the License Agreement], [Rosen] informed [Beck] in early September that he had transferred money into QQQ.

1 During November, [Rosen] called to tell [Beck] that his controller had 2 erroneously placed the funds he had transferred into a money market account 3 that had a fixed redemption date of December 15, 2003. If he broke the term of 4 this transaction he would have to pay an expensive penalty, greater than the 5 interest earned. [Beck] calculated that we would lose the equivalent of $38,000 in interest by a late penalty, but agreed to the late payment provided that QQQ grant us at least $50,000 in support and development costs. [Rosen] agreed to provide 200 hours of such services to us, and [Beck], in turn, granted the extension to him.

6 In December, we agreed as a matter of convenience, to offset the $1.95mm
 7 payment due from QQQ totaling $3.9mm against the amount we owed to QQQ for the acquisition of the Pyramid software.

8 (Id. at 946). The memorandum details the history of the Pyramid software, and then states:

9 [Island Pacific] entered into an agreement with QQQ to acquire the Pyramid 10 software in December 2003 for $3.9mm. During the first week of December,
 ... it appeared that the negotiations to acquire the Pyramid software would drag 11 into the middle/end of December. As discussed previously, we decided to offset the purchase price of the Pyramid software against the amount QQQ owed us.
 This was documented in the purchase agreement....

12 (Id. at 947). Braun, Beck and the other two members of Island Pacific's Board of Directors 13 signed the memorandum below a statement that said, "Please sign below to attest that you have 14 read the document and it accurately captures the details regarding the consummation of the two 15 separate transactions." (Id.; Furman Test. at 230-31, Pl.'s Ex. 5). Furman faxed the signed 16 memorandum to the auditors on July 30, 2004. (Furman Test. at 230-31, Pl.'s Ex. 5).

17 "Most of the information" in the memorandum came from Braun and Beck. (Furman 18 Test. at 229, Pl.'s Ex. 5; Furman Ex. 6). On May 3, 2004, Furman emailed to Schechter three 19 sentences from the memorandum, including the sentence related to QQQ erroneously placing 20 funds into a money market account, to "see if [Schechter] can fill in some of the blanks."
 21 (Furman Ex. 69 at 1088). Beside another sentence from the memorandum, Furman wrote to 22 Schechter, "IS THIS ACCURATE." (Id.) Furman stated in an affidavit:

23 I, on behalf of [Island Pacific], demanded payment of QQQ via invoice after 24 QQQ failed to make their first payment in November 2003, pursuant to the terms of the License Agreement. I also had at least one, if not more follow-up 25 discussions with Mr. Schechter about the missed/late payment. Mr. Schechter told me that we had nothing to worry about and that QQQ would pay.

26 (Furman Decl. ¶ 21, Doc. # 36-3; see also Furman Dep. at 30, Furman Ex. 1). Furman testified 27 that "around the November/December [2003] timeframe," he was first told that QQQ could 28 not make the first payment according to the License Agreement because QQQ's controller had

1 erroneously deposited the funds into a money market account. (Furman Test. at 233, Pl.'s Ex.
2 5). Rosen testified that the statements in the memorandum indicating that QQQ erroneously 3 placed funds into a money market account were false. (Rosen Dep. at 74-75, Pl.'s Ex. 6).

4 Island Pacific announced its FY 2004 financial results in a June 29, 2004, press release,
5 earnings call, and Form 10-K, for its fiscal year ended March 31, 2004. (Pl.'s Ex. 37 (Earnings
6 Release); Pl.'s Ex. 38 (earnings call transcript); Pl.'s Ex. 17 (2004 10-K)). Furman 7 participated in reviewing and editing the press release and the earnings conference call script.
8 (Furman Test. at 68-70, Pl.'s Ex. 4.) Michael Tomczak, Island Pacific's new President and 9 Chief Operating Officer, and Furman spoke during the earnings conference call, broadcast over 10 the Internet at or about 4:30 p.m. EDT. (Pl.'s Ex. 38 at 960-62).⁵ Furman signed the Form
11 10-K, and signed a certification that to his knowledge, the Form 10-K fairly presented, in all 12 material respects, the Company's financial condition and results of operations. (Furman Test.
13 at 233-34, Pl.'s Ex 5; Pl.'s Ex. 17 at 617). Furman certified that he had reviewed the Form 14 10-K and that:

- 15 2. Based on my knowledge, this annual report does not contain any untrue 16 statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary to 17 make the statements made, in light of the circumstances under which such statements were made, not misleading with respect to the period covered by this annual report;
- 18 3. Based on my knowledge, the financial statements and other financial 19 information included in this annual report, fairly present in all material 20 respects the financial condition, results of operations and cash flows of [Island Pacific] ... for the periods presented in this annual report;
- 21 4. [Island Pacific]'s other certifying officers and I are responsible for 22 establishing and maintaining disclosure controls and procedures ... to 23 provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements ... in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles....
- 24 5. [Island Pacific]'s other certifying officers and I have disclosed ... to [Island Pacific]'s auditors ... any fraud, whether or not material, that involves management....

24 (Pl.'s Ex. 17 at 744-45). In its press release, earnings call and 2004 Form 10-K, Island Pacific 25 reported revenues of $21.7 million, gross profit of almost $16.5 million, and a loss from 26 continuing operations of $4.2 million. (Pl.'s Ex. 37 (Earnings Release) 956, 958; Pl.'s Ex. 38
27

28 ⁵ Michael Tomczak joined Island Pacific "about a month" prior to the June 29, 2004 earnings conference call. (Pl.'s Ex. 38 at 962).

(earnings call transcript) 961-62 (stating a “gross profit of $15.5 million”); Pl.’s Ex. 17 at 527).
 Island Pacific included the $3.9 million from the License Agreement as reported revenue in the 2004 Form 10-K. (Pl.’s Ex. 42 at 1316-17).

On July 11, 2004, Furman and Tran signed a management representation letter which was sent to the auditors. (Furman Test. at 234-35, Pl.’s Ex. 5; Pl.’s Ex. 36). The letter stated:

1. The financial statements ... are fairly presented in conformity with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States....
3. We have no knowledge of fraud or suspected fraud affecting the entity involving ... management or employees who have significant roles in the internal control....
5. We have no knowledge of any allegations of fraud or suspected fraud affecting the Company received in communications from employees, [or] former employees....
6. There are no significant deficiencies ... in the design or operation of internal controls....
9. The Company is accounting for its software revenues in accordance with Statement of Position 97-2 ... and Staff Accounting Bulletin No. 104.... In addition ...there are no side agreements for any sales....
11. There are no ... material transactions that have not been properly recorded in the accounting records underlying the financial statements....
24. We confirm that the transactional history which has resulted in the recording of revenues from QQQ systems of $3.9m has been accurately presented to you and is properly reflected in the financial statements under the applicable revenue recognition criteria....

(Pl.’s Ex. 36 at 951-55).

Every quarterly statement Island Pacific prepared was “signed off on” and approved by outside auditors, SingerLewak, confirming that Island Pacific was using the correct accounting methods. (Silverman Dep. at 77, Furman Ex. 64; Furman Decl. ¶ 7, Doc. # 36-3). With respect to the QQQ transactions, the SingerLewak audit paperwork states: “[SingerLewak] notes that such related party transactions are not always properly recorded. [SingerLewak] will specifically review all three transactions identified to ensure that the revenue recognition criteria ... are met..., assets are not overstated, i.e. that all balances due are collectible (notes receivable), and capitalized costs are properly recorded....” (Aubury Dep. at 176-77, Furman Ex. 13). In connection with SingerLewak’s 2004 annual audit, the SingerLewak audit paperwork indicates that SingerLewak performed “revenue testing.” (Id. at 179-80).

Island Pacific represented in its Q2 2004 and Q3 2004 Forms 10-Q filed on or about November 12, 2003, and February 17, 2004, respectively, and its 2004 Form 10-K filed on or

1 about June 29, 2004, that “[w]e recognize revenue [when licensing software] in accordance 2 with Statement of Position 97-2 ..., Software Revenue Recognition, ... issued ... by the 3 American Institute of Certified Public Accountants.” (Pl.’s Ex. 15 at 377 (Q2 2004 Form
4 10-Q); Pl.’s Ex. 16 at 449 (Q3 2004 Form 10-Q); Pl.’s Ex. 17 at 555 (2004 Form 10-K)).
5 Statement of Position 97-2 provides that software revenue recognition is proper only when:
6 (1) “persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists,” (2) “delivery has occurred,” (3) “the 7 vendor’s fee is fixed and determinable,” and (4) “collectability is probable.” (Pl.’s Ex. 18 at 8 749-50 (SOP 97-2 ¶ .08)). In its Forms 10-Q and Form 10-K, Island Pacific states: “Software 9 license revenue is generally recognized when a license agreement has been signed, the 10 software product has been delivered, there are no uncertainties surrounding product
11 acceptance, the fees are fixed and determinable, and collection is considered probable.” (Pl.’s
12 Ex. 15 at 377 (Q2 2004 Form 10-Q); Pl.’s Ex. 16 at 449 (Q3 2004 Form 10-Q); Pl.’s Ex. 17 13 at 555 (2004 Form 10-K)).

14 During the Summer of 2004, Schechter asked Rosen to meet with Michael Tomczak, 15 the new Chief Operating Officer of Island Pacific. (Rosen Dep. at 57, Furman Ex. 3).
16 “[T]hings became acrimonious between [Tomczak] and [Rosen] in that meeting, and ...
17 [Rosen] told [Tomczak] that [QQQ] would not continue to do anything with Island Pacific 18 thereafter.” (Id. at 58). Prior to that time, QQQ had not sold any licenses for Island Pacific’s 19 “Host software” pursuant to the License Agreement because at the time of Rosen and 20 Tomczak’s meeting, QQQ was “still ramping up, ... getting the software loaded, getting our 21 people educated, [and] getting accreditation from IBM on the equipment....” (Id. at 59). Rosen 22 testified that prior to Tomczak joining Island Pacific in approximately May or June of 2004, 23 QQQ and Island Pacific had “a very cooperative and friendly relationship, but it was always 24 at arm’s length. I was always trying to make the most money I could for myself.” (Id. at 207).
25 But then Tomczak told Rosen that Island Pacific was “not going to resell Pyramid any longer” 26 and “[Tomczak] was planning to go behind our back” to sell Island Pacific’s Host software in 27 Australia. (Id. at 59, 207-08). Rosen felt that “Tomczak was a dishonest guy, and I felt he ...
28 wasn’t going to honor the agreements as they were struck....” (Id. at 210).

1 On September 24, 2004, an accountant with the SEC sent Furman a letter stating that 2 the SEC had reviewed Island Pacific's financial statements for Q3 2004 and fiscal year 2004.
 3 (Pl.'s Ex. 39). The SEC accountant makes numerous requests, including a request for 4 additional information on the QQQ transactions and "how your accounting for this contract
 5 complies with [Statement of Position] 97-2." (Id. at 970, 972).

6 On November 15, 2004, Island Pacific reversed entries on its books reflecting the 7 License Agreement and Sublicense Agreement, and restated its Q2 2004, Q3 2004 and fiscal 8 year 2004 financial statements. (Pl.'s Ex. 40-42; Furman Test. at 148-49, Pl.'s Ex. 5). Each 9 of the restated reports were filed with the SEC and signed by Furman and Michael Tomczak, 10 Island Pacific's Chief Operating Officer. (Furman Test. at 238, 243-44, Pl.'s Ex. 5; Pl.'s Ex.
 11 42 at 1370, 1372 (2004 10-KA); Pl.'s Ex. 40 at 1058, 1060 (Q2 10-QA); Ex. 41 at 1146, 1148
 12 (Q3 10-QA)). The amended fiscal year 2004 financial statement states:

13 In September 2003, we signed a Source Code License ... agreement with QQQ
 14 Systems Pty Limited ... for the sale of software technology rights and exclusivity 15 to use our Host Retail Merchandising Software (our core product) and Direct 16 Software (Market Place System) for the Australasia market. Our management 17 at the time did not see the Australasia market as a viable market for our products 18 and therefore decided to sell the license rights to that market. We recorded this 19 as revenue and an account receivable in the quarter ended September 30, 2003 20 as a persuasive evidence of an arrangement existed, the software had been 21 delivered to and accepted by QQQ, the price was fixed and the collectibility was 22 reasonably assured. The total license fee was $3.9 million and was to be paid 23 $1.95 million on November 15, 2003 and $1.95 million on December 31, 2003.
 24 In addition, we would be entitled to a 10% royalty on QQQ's net sublicensing 25 revenues for a period of 36 months from the date of the contract.... In December 26 2003, we entered into a separate agreement to purchase from QQQ exclusive 27 ownership and rights to use, market, reproduce and license QQQ's point of sale 28 software ... in Europe and North and South America for the purchase price of $3.9 million. ... Initially, the $3.9 million purchase price was paid by offsetting the purchase price amount against the outstanding account receivable due to us from QQQ. Accordingly, in the quarter ended December 31, 2003, the receivable of $3.9 million was eliminated and we recorded the $3.9 million as an asset. However, subsequent to entering into these transactions, certain facts and circumstances relating to these transactions have changed. The management of QQQ has indicated that it does not desire to actively pursue opportunities for the [Island Pacific] products in Australia, while at the same time[,] our current management has initiated discussions with a major Australian retailer about a sale of our products and now considers the Australian market a viable market for our products. As QQQ has an exclusive license for the Australian market, we are currently in negotiations with them to allow us to directly sell to this Australian retailer. As part of the restatement of the financial statements in this Form 10-K/A, we have reversed the revenue and account receivable recognized at September 30, 2003 on this one time sale. Also, as part of the restatement, we have reversed the purchase of the technology recognized at December 31, 2003

1 as we cannot assign a value to the technology and eliminated the $3.9 million
2 asset from the balance sheet....

3 (Pl.'s Ex. 42 at 1316-17). Furman testified that the reason Island Pacific "restate[d] its 4 September and December 2003 quarters and actually reversed the QQQ transactions" was 5 because "we never received payment from QQQ and at that time [we] looked at it as a 6 transaction that should not have been recorded in the first place." (Furman Test. at 148, Pl.'s
7 Ex. 5).

8 II. Contentions of the Parties

9 The SEC contends that the evidence demonstrates as a matter of law that:

10 [d]uring his short tenure as CFO, Furman cooked the company's books by 11 causing it to overstate its second quarter 2004 revenues by 140%, resulting in 12 overstatements of its third quarter and annual revenues as well. Furman did so 13 by booking a $3.9 million sham sale of software to an Australian start-up 14 company, QQQ.... When payment was not made by QQQ, Furman caused an 15 offsetting transaction to be prematurely booked the next quarter, and eliminated 16 the $3.9 million receivable. Furman then lied in management representation 17 letters to Island Pacific's auditors, in company filings with the Commission, in 18 company earnings releases, and in company conference calls with analysts about 19 the company's financial results, and omitted disclosure of material facts 20 concerning the sham transaction.

21 (Doc. # 33-2 at 1). The SEC contends that, as a matter of law, Furman violated the antifraud
22 provisions of Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 ("Exchange Act"), 15
23 U.S.C. § 78j(b), and Rule 10b-5 thereunder, 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5. In addition, the SEC
24 contends that Furman's actions, as a matter of law, constituted falsification of company books 25 and records, circumvention of company internal controls and making false representations to 26 company auditors in violation of Section 13(b)(5) of the Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78m(b)(5)
27 and Exchange Act Rules 13b2-1 and 13b2-2, 17 C.F.R. §§ 240.13b2-1 & 13b2-2; false
28 certification of the accuracy of company Form 10-Qs in violation of Commission Rule 13a-14, 17 C.F.R. § 240-13a-14; and aiding and abetting Island Pacific's violations of the issuer reporting requirements of Section 13(a) of the Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78m(a), and Rules 12b-20, 13a-1 and 13a-13 thereunder, 17 C.F.R. §§ 240.12b-20, 13a-1 & 13a-13. According to the SEC:

Furman's fraudulent acts were repeated, egregious, and intentional. The Commission accordingly seeks by this motion entry of a final judgment against Furman permanently enjoining him from future violations of the above statutory

1 and regulatory provisions, ordering him to pay a civil penalty of $120,000, and 2 permanently barring him from acting as an officer or director of a public company.

3 (Doc. # 33-2 at 3).

4 Furman asserts that “[t]he SEC simply has no evidence that demonstrates Furman acted 5 with scienter with respect to any of the allegations of securities fraud. The SEC also ignores 6 the fact that its own summary judgment record is full of contradictory evidence—from multiple 7 versions of contracts to inconsistent statements by witnesses.” (Doc. # 36 at 1). Furman 8 contends that there is “credible evidence” that the “September 30, 2003 License Agreement”
 9 and the “December 31, 2003 Sublicense Agreement” were “real, arms-length business
 10 agreements.” (Id.) Furman asserts: “The SEC glosses over this evidence and concludes both 11 were sham arrangements. The SEC further turns a blind eye to evidence that demonstrates 12 Furman had no motive to participate in any scheme to inflate [Island Pacific]’s revenue, real 13 or imagined by the Commission.” (Id.) According to Furman:

14 [N]oticeably absent from the SEC’s moving papers is any discussion of the 15 detailed review—quarter-by-quarter and at year-end—of IP’s accounting by its 16 independent outside auditors, SingerLewak.... Moreover, credible, admissible 17 evidence shows that the accounting for the two questioned transactions was appropriate; that Furman had no reason to believe otherwise; that he believed proper disclosure was made in periodic filings; and that full disclosure of facts relevant to the transactions was made to the outside independent auditing firm SingerLewak.

18 (Id. at 1-2). Furman contends:

19 There is also credible, admissible evidence that at the time the transactions were 20 entered into between IP and QQQ, both companies were working to implement 21 and fully perform on those agreements, and that only a subsequent change in leadership at IP caused those agreements to fall into disfavor (because the new 22 CEO of IP changed the strategic direction of the company and decided to compete head-to-head with QQQ in QQQ’s own markets).

23 (Id. at 2). Accordingly, Furman asserts: “Given the conflicting testimony, various versions of 24 contracts, differing interpretations of significant events and absolute lack of motive or other 25 evidence of scienter on Furman’s part, there are substantial genuine issues of material fact that 26 simply cannot be decided on summary judgment.” (Id.)

27 III. Standard of Review

28 Summary judgment is proper when the “pleadings, depositions, answers to

1 interrogatories, and admissions on file, together with the affidavits, if any, show that there is 2 no genuine issue as to any material fact and that the moving party is entitled to judgment as 3 a matter of law.” Fed. R. Civ. P. 56(c). An issue of fact is “genuine” only if there is sufficient 4 evidence for a reasonable fact finder to find for the non-moving party. See Anderson v. Liberty
5 Lobby, Inc., 477 U.S. 242, 248-49 (1986). A fact is “material” if it may affect the outcome of 6 the case. See id. at 248.

7 “When the party moving for summary judgment would bear the burden of proof at trial,
8 it must come forward with evidence which would entitle it to a directed verdict if the evidence 9 went uncontroverted at trial. In such a case, the moving party has the initial burden of 10 establishing the absence of a genuine issue of fact on each issue material to its case.” Miller 11 v. Glenn Miller Prods., Inc., 454 F.3d 975, 987 (9th Cir. 2006) (quotation omitted). “Once the 12 moving party comes forward with sufficient evidence, the burden then moves to the opposing 13 party, who must present significant probative evidence tending to support its claim or defense.”
14 C.A.R. Transp. Brokerage Co., Inc. v. Darden Rests., Inc., 213 F.3d 474, 480 (9th Cir. 2000)
15 (citation omitted).

16 “In ruling on a motion for summary judgment, the nonmoving party’s evidence is to be 17 believed, and all justifiable inferences are to be drawn in that party’s favor.” Hunt v.
18 Cromartie, 526 U.S. 541, 552 (1999) (quotation omitted). At the summary judgment stage, 19 “[c]redibility determinations, the weighing of the evidence, and the drawing of legitimate 20 inferences from the facts are jury functions, not those of a judge.” Anderson, 477 U.S. at 255;
21 see also Dominguez-Curry v. Nevada Transp. Dep’t, 424 F.3d 1027, 1035-36 (9th Cir. 2005)
22 (“The district court ... improperly dismissed Dominguez’s allegations as consisting of nothing
23 more than ‘self-serving statements in her own deposition and affidavit.’ Such observations go 24 to whether Dominguez is credible, a determination that is exclusively within the province of 25 the factfinder at trial, not the district court on summary judgment....”).

26 IV. Discussion

27 A. Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5

28 Section 10(b) of the Securities Exchange Act is “the central antifraud provision of the

1 Securities Exchange Act.” SEC v. Fehn, 97 F.3d 1276, 1289 (9th Cir. 1996). Section 10(b)
 2 makes it unlawful “for any person, directly or indirectly”:

3 To use or employ, in connection with the purchase or sale of any security 4 registered on a national securities exchange or any security not so registered, ...
 5 any manipulative or deceptive device or contrivance in contravention of such rules and regulations as the Commission may prescribe as necessary or appropriate in the public interest or for the protection of investors.

6 15 U.S.C. § 78j(b). Rule 10b-5 further defines the conduct prohibited under Section 10(b), 7 making it unlawful:

8 (a) [t]o employ any device, scheme, or artifice to defraud,

9 (b) to make any untrue statement of a material fact or to omit to state a 10 material fact necessary in order to make the statements made, in the light of the circumstances under which they were made, not misleading, or 11 (c) to engage in any act, practice, or course of business which operates 12 or would operate as a fraud or deceit upon any person,

13 in connection with the purchase or sale of any security.

14 17 C.F.R. § 240.10b-5.

15 “[T]he SEC must prove four elements to establish a misrepresentation violating Rule 16 10b-5...: (1) a material misrepresentation, (2) in connection with the purchase or sale of a 17 security, (3) scienter, [and] (4) use of the jurisdictional means....” SEC v. Rana Research, Inc., 18 8 F.3d 1358, 1364 (9th Cir. 1993) (citations omitted); see also S.E.C. v. Phan, 500 F.3d 895, 19 907-08 (9th Cir. 2007) (“Section 10(b) of the 1934 Act, and Rule 10b-5 forbid making [1] a 20 material misstatement or omission [2] in connection with the offer or sale of a security [3] by 21 means of interstate commerce.... Violations of ... Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 require scienter.”).

22 “Where the fraud alleged involves public dissemination in a document such as a press
 23 release, annual report, investment prospectus or other such document on which an investor 24 would presumably rely, the ‘in connection with’ requirement is generally met by proof of the 25 means of dissemination and the materiality of the misrepresentation or omission.” Rana 26 Research, 8 F.3d at 1362 (citation omitted); see also id. (“We have said that the ‘in connection 27 with’ requirement is met if the fraud alleged ‘somehow touches upon’ or has ‘some nexus’ 28 with ‘any securities transaction.’”) (quoting SEC v. Clark, 915 F.2d 439, 449 (9th Cir. 1990)).

1 The SEC has produced evidence of alleged misstatements concerning the License Agreement
 2 and the Sublicense Agreement made in annual and quarterly reports (Forms 10-K and 10-Q), 3 press releases and conference calls.

4 The primary issue in dispute is whether, as a matter of law, Furman made material
 5 misrepresentations or omissions with scienter. “Materiality and scienter are both fact-specific 6 issues which should ordinarily be left to the trier of fact. However, summary judgment may 7 be granted in appropriate cases.” In re Apple Computer Sec. Litig., 886 F.2d 1109, 1113 (9th
 8 Cir. 1989) (citations omitted); see also Provenz v. Miller, 102 F.3d 1478, 1489 (9th Cir. 1996) 9 (“Whether an omission is material is a determination that requires delicate assessments of the 10 inferences a reasonable shareholder would draw from a given set of facts and the significance 11 of those inferences to him, and these assessments are peculiarly ones for the trier of fact....
 12 Generally, scienter should not be resolved by summary judgment.”) (quotation omitted).

13 Scienter is “a mental state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud.” Ernst
 14 & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 U.S. 185, 193 n.12 (1976). In the Section 10(b) context, scienter 15 requires “proof that the defendant acted knowingly or recklessly.” Hollinger v. Titan Capital 16 Corp., 914 F.2d 1564, 1568-69 (9th Cir.1990) (en banc). Recklessness is defined as:

17 a highly unreasonable omission, involving not merely simple, or even 18 inexcusable negligence, but an extreme departure from the standards of ordinary 19 care, and which presents a danger of misleading buyers or sellers that is either known to the defendant or is so obvious that the actor must have been aware of it.

20 Id. at 1569 (quotation omitted). “Reckless conduct must be something more egregious than 21 even ‘white heart/empty head’ good faith and represents an extreme departure from the 22 standards of ordinary care such that the defendant must have been aware of it.” SEC v.
 23 Rubera, 350 F.3d 1084, 1094 (9th Cir. 2003) (citing Hollinger, 914 F.2d at 1570).
 24 “Recklessness satisfies the scienter requirement only ‘to the extent that it reflects some degree 25 of intentional or conscious misconduct.’” Id. at 1094-95 (quoting In re Silicon Graphics Inc.
 26 Sec. Litig., 183 F.3d 970, 977 (9th Cir. 1999)).

27 The SEC contends that Furman “cooked the company’s books” by “booking a $3.9 28 million sham sale of software,” which caused Island Pacific to materially overstate its second

1 and third quarter revenues, as well as its annual revenues. (Doc. # 33-2 at 1). However, the 2 record contains sufficient evidence for a jury to find that the transactions with QQQ were 3 legitimate, viable transactions. (Rosen Dep. at 62, Pl.’s Ex. 6 (on September 30, 2003, Island
4 Pacific shipped software to QQQ in accordance with the License Agreement); Furman Ex. 59
5 (Schechter and Beck were interested in pursuing the Pyramid software for Island Pacific);
6 Furman Exs. 60, 61 (Beck directed Island Pacific employees to include the Pyramid software 7 in Island Pacific’s proposals to potential clients); Furman Ex. 65 at 1065 (Braun referenced the 8 Pyramid software and stated that Beck “is going to drive this oppty”); Rosen Dep. at 195, 9 Furman Ex. 3 (Rosen testified that Island Pacific was selling the Pyramid software “into Island 10 Pacific’s customer base even before the [Sublicense] [A]greement was finalized”); Pl.’s Ex.
11 24 at 858 (Sublicense Agreement) (Rosen and Beck acknowledging that QQQ owed $3.9 12 million to Island Pacific); Furman Ex. 62 at 1057 (Beck stating in an email that, “[t]he fact of 13 the matter is that we got an incredible bargain on” QQQ’s Pyramid software); Furman Ex. 63 14 (an April 7, 2004 email from an Island Pacific employee to Beck and others, indicating that 15 Island Pacific was still working with the Pyramid software); Rosen Dep. at 59, Furman Ex. 3 16 (QQQ was “ramping up, ... getting the [Island Pacific ‘Host’] software loaded, getting our 17 people educated, [and] getting accreditation from IBM on the equipment”)).

18 Alternatively, the record contains sufficient evidence for a reasonable jury to find that 19 if the QQQ transactions represented a “sham sale of software” (Doc. # 33-2 at 1), Furman was 20 misled into believing they were legitimate transactions by Schechter, Braun and/or Beck.
21 Furman, who joined Island Pacific in September 2003, had no involvement in the negotiation 22 of the License Agreement. (Furman Decl. ¶ 16, Doc. # 36-2; Rosen Dep. at 44, Furman Ex.
23 3). At least twice, Furman sought assurances from Schechter—who negotiated the License 24 Agreement—in an effort to verify that Furman’s understanding of the terms of the License 25 Agreement was correct. (Rosen Dep. at 43-44, Furman Ex. 3 (Schechter negotiated the 26 License Agreement); Pl.’s Ex. 12 at 227 (Furman emailed Schechter a version of the License 27 Agreement and Furman stated, “If you want us to change it, please let us know.”); Furman Ex.
28 71 at 1098 (Furman emailed Schechter regarding the License Agreement: “Barry, from my side, we have already booked $3.25mm and I plan to book the additional $650k as well. Please make sure these are correct.") (emphasis added)). Furman relied upon Schechter for assurance that QQQ would pay the money due under the License Agreement. (Furman Decl. ¶ 16, Doc. # 36-3 (Schechter reassured Furman that QQQ would pay the amounts due under the License Agreement); see also Furman Test. at 233, Pl.'s Ex. 5 (Furman was told that QQQ could not make the first payment according to the License Agreement because QQQ's controller had erroneously deposited the funds into a money market account)). When Furman drafted the May 12, 2004 memorandum to the auditors concerning the QQQ transactions, Furman relied upon information provided by Braun, Beck and Schechter. (Pl.'s Ex. 35 at 247, Furman Test. at 230-31, Pl.'s Ex. 5 (Beck, Braun and two other members of Island Pacific's Board of Directors signed Furman's May 12, 2004 memorandum to the auditors, stating that the memorandum "accurately captures the details regarding the consummation of the two separate transactions"); Furman Test. at 229, Pl.'s Ex. 5 ("most of the information" in the memorandum came from Braun and Beck); Furman Ex. 69 at 1088 (Furman relied on Schechter to "fill in some of the blanks" in the memorandum and verify the accuracy of some of the information in the memorandum)). The Court concludes that the evidence is insufficient to demonstrate as a matter of law that Furman acted with scienter.

In its Reply Brief, the SEC contends that Furman does not offer evidence to dispute the following:

(1) emails [Furman] authored establishing that he modified the License Agreement after quarter end but nevertheless caused Island Pacific to improperly record revenue of $3.9 million in Q2 2004 (see Facts ¶¶ 14-15, 17 & 29 & SEC Exhs. 5, 11, 12 ("the only thing we did was change Exhibit A and B") & 13 ("We amended the agreement."));

(2) emails establishing that he knew that the Sublicense Agreement was not finalized by quarter end but nevertheless caused Island Pacific to improperly record the transaction in Q3 2004 and eliminate the $3.9 million receivable (see Facts ¶¶ 42 & 46-50); and

(3) emails and testimony establishing that he knew that an employee, Dietzler, had alleged potential fraud with regard to the two transactions in a detailed email to him, but that he nevertheless falsely represented to the auditors just days later that he had no knowledge of any allegations of fraud (see Facts ¶¶ 46-53).

(Doc. # 41 at 5).

1 1. Statement of Position 97-2

2 The first two categories of emails cited by the SEC in its Reply Brief support the SEC's
3 contention that post-quarter contract modifications were made to the License Agreement and 4 the Sublicense Agreement, and therefore Furman knowingly or recklessly failed to recognize 5 revenue in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP")—specifically, 6 Statement of Position ("SOP") 97-2. SOP 97-2 provides that software revenue recognition is 7 proper only when: (1) "persuasive evidence of an arrangement exists," (2) "delivery has 8 occurred," (3) "the vendor's fee is fixed and determinable," and (4) "collectability is probable."
9 (Pl.'s Ex. 18 at 749-50 (SOP 97-2 ¶ .08)). In its Forms 10-Q and Form 10-K, Island Pacific 10 represented: "Software license revenue is generally recognized when a license agreement has 11 been signed, the software product has been delivered, there are no uncertainties surrounding 12 product acceptance, the fees are fixed and determinable, and collection is considered 13 probable." (Pl.'s Ex. 15 at 377 (Q2 2004 Form 10-Q); Pl.'s Ex. 16 at 449 (Q3 2004 Form 14 10-Q); Pl.'s Ex. 17 at 555 (2004 Form 10-K)). Furman testified that for "GAAP purposes," 15 to record revenue on a software transaction, "a contract, a written agreement" is necessary.
16 (Furman Test. at 99, Pl.'s Ex. 5). He also testified that Island Pacific considered "evidence of 17 an arrangement" to be a contract signed by both parties "as of the quarter end or the year end."
18 (Id.)

19 In the Ninth Circuit, "[t]he mere publication of inaccurate accounting figures, or a 20 failure to follow GAAP, without more, does not establish scienter." In re Worlds of Wonder

4 i. License Agreement

5 The earliest documentary evidence in the record of a version of the License Agreement 6 which contains a $3.9 million purchase price are emails between Dietzler, Furman and 7 Schechter, dated October 10, 2003—ten days after the end of Q2 2004. (Furman Ex. 71 at 8 1098; see also Pl.’s Ex. 13A at 234, 241 (October 13, 2003 email from Furman to Tran, with 9 an attached unsigned copy of the License Agreement containing a $3.9 million purchase 10 price)). In his portion of this email chain, Furman wrote: “Barry [Schechter], from my side,
 11 we have already booked $3.25mm and I plan to book the additional $650k as well. Please 12 make sure these are correct.” (Furman Ex. 71 at 1098). In an earlier email on October 10, 13 2009, Furman sent Schechter a version of the License Agreement with a $3.7 million purchase 14 price (i.e., $200,000 less than the final purchase price), and wrote to Schechter:

15 Barry, in the spirit (and language) of the original executed document, the only 16 thing we did was change Exhibit A and B to broaden the definition of ‘Software’
 to include Direct, in addition to [Island Pacific] Host. Exhibit B (License and Royalties) also has 2 sections to it - [Island Pacific] Host and Direct.

17 Since everything else is the same and consistent, this is the easiest and I believe 18 the cleanest way to do this.

19 If you want us to change it, please let us know.

20 (Pl.’s Ex. 12 at 227).

21 Furman testified that it was his understanding that the final “sale price of $3,900,000”
 22 in the License Agreement “was arrived at prior to the close of September 30, 2003.” (Furman 23 Test. at 98, Pl.’s Ex. 5). When asked if the “final sale price” was “documented as of 24 September 30, 2003,” Furman responded, “That I’m not sure of.” (Id.) Furman states in his 25 affidavit:

26 I understood the agreed upon terms of the License Agreement, as of September 27 30, 2003, granted QQQ a license to distribute both Host and Direct software, 28 and required that QQQ pay [Island Pacific] $3.25 million for Host and $650,000 for Direct (payable in two equal installments due on November 15, and December 31, 2003), plus 10% of QQQ’s net sublicensing fees.... When [Island
 Pacific] recorded revenue for the Second Quarter 2004, I believed [Island
 Pacific] had an agreement signed during that quarter documenting the $3.9

1 million sale price.
 2 (Furman Decl. ¶¶ 12-13, Doc. # 36-3).

3 ii. Sublicense Agreement

4 With respect to the Sublicense Agreement, on January 16, 2004, Rosen sent Schechter 5 an email, which stated: “1st draft of pyramid technology agreement[.] [L]et me have your 6 comments.” (Pl.’s Ex. 23 at 837). Attached to the email is an undated and unsigned version
 7 of the Sublicense Agreement, which contains different terms from the signed version dated 8 December 14, 2003. On January 28, 2004, Tran sent Furman an email, with the subject
 9 “QQQ”, which stated: “Do you have the latest copy so we can prepare the journal entry?”
 10 (Pl.’s Ex. 26 at 879). On the same day, Furman forwarded Tran’s email to Joseph Dietzler, 11 Island Pacific’s Contract Administrator, and asked him to forward “what you have for QQQ 12 [to Tran] so she can book it.” (Id.) Dietzler responded to Tran, copying Furman, by 13 forwarding an unsigned copy of the Sublicense Agreement, which is dated December 14, 2003
 14 and contains the same terms as the signed version of the Sublicense Agreement. (Id.)

15 Furman testified that, “based on” the January 16, 2004 email from Rosen to Schechter
 16 (with a “1st draft” of the Sublicense Agreement attached), it does not “seem possible that there 17 could have been a final agreement on December 31, 2003.” (Furman Test. at 143, Pl.’s Ex. 5).
 18 However, Furman states in his affidavit: “I believed that the Technology Purchase Agreement 19 between QQQ and [Island Pacific] (‘Pyramid Sublicense Agreement’) dated December 14, 20 2003 was finalized prior to December 31, 2003.... I was not aware that a ‘first draft’ of the 21 Pyramid Sublicense Agreement was being circulated in January 2004.” (Furman Decl. ¶¶ 18-22 19, Doc. # 36-3).

23 iii. “Sham” Affidavit Caselaw

24 In its Reply Brief, the SEC contends: “Furman’s broad and vague assertions [in his 25 affidavit] lack sufficient specificity to create a genuine issue of material fact, particularly when 26 the assertions are contradicted by documentary evidence and his own prior testimony. See 27 Kennedy v. Allied Mut. Ins. Co., 952 F.2d 262, 266 (9th Cir. 1991)....” (Doc. # 41 at 5; see 28 also id. at 8).

1 In Kennedy, the Ninth Circuit stated: “The general rule in the Ninth Circuit is that a
2 party cannot create an issue of fact by an affidavit contradicting his prior deposition
3 testimony.” Kennedy, 952 F.2d at 266 (citing Radobenko v. Automated Equip. Corp., 520 F.2d
4 540, 543-44 (9th Cir. 1975)). However, “the Radobenko court was concerned with ‘sham’
5 testimony that flatly contradicts earlier testimony in an attempt to ‘create’ an issue of fact and 6 avoid summary judgment. Therefore, before applying the Radobenko sanction, the district 7 court must make a factual determination that the contradiction was actually a ‘sham.’”
8 Kennedy, 952 F.2d at 267.

9 The Court does not find that Furman’s affidavit “flatly contradicts” his earlier
10 deposition testimony, nor does the Court find that Furman’s affidavit testimony is a “sham.”
11 Id. Viewing all reasonable inferences in Furman’s favor, Furman’s affidavit indicates that, as 12 of the date Island Pacific recorded the revenue, Furman believed the respective agreements 13 with QQQ were finalized in writing. By contrast, approximately three years after Island 14 Pacific recorded the revenue, Furman testified that, as of the date of his testimony, he was “not 15 sure” if the License Agreement was “documented as of September 30, 2003,” and it does not 16 “seem possible that there could have been a final [Sublicense] agreement on December 31, 17 2003.” (Furman Test. at 98, 143, Pl.’s Ex. 5).

18 Furman’s testimony that it does not “seem possible that there could have been a final 19 [Sublicense] agreement on December 31, 2003,” was “based on” Rosen’s January 16, 2004
20 email to Schechter with a “1st draft” of the Sublicense Agreement attached. (Id. at 143).
21 Furman’s affidavit states: “I was not aware that a ‘first draft’ of the Pyramid Sublicense 22 Agreement was being circulated in January 2004.” (Furman Decl. ¶ 19, Doc. # 36-3). In an 23 affidavit, “the non-moving party is not precluded from elaborating upon, explaining or 24 clarifying prior testimony elicited by opposing counsel on deposition.” Messick v. Horizon
25 Indus. Inc., 62 F.3d 1227, 1231 (9th Cir. 1995). It can be reasonably inferred that Furman’s 26 affidavit statement that he was unaware of a first draft being circulated in January explains or 27 clarifies his prior testimony that it does not seem possible that there could have been a final 28 Sublicense Agreement on December 31, 2003.

1 The Court may not disregard Furman’s sworn testimony and/or sworn affidavit even 2 if they are directly contradicted by unsworn, pre-litigation emails. See Leslie v. Grupo ICA, 3 198 F.3d 1152, 1158 (9th Cir. 1999) (“Leslie’s letters to ICA appear to contradict his assertion
 4 of a contract entitling him to a percentage fee. This is different, however, from our ‘sham
 5 affidavit’ cases, because Leslie’s deposition testimony and sworn declaration in this case are 6 consistent and are contradicted only by Leslie’s unsworn letters.”) (citing Shockley v. City of 7 Newport News, 997 F.2d 18, 23 (4th Cir. 1993) (“Chief Carey’s letter was not the equivalent 8 of deposition testimony. In writing the letter, Chief Carey did not testify under oath, nor was 9 he subject to cross-examination. In these circumstances, the district court should not have 10 disregarded Chief Carey’s affidavit on the sole basis that it contradicted his earlier letter.”)).
 11 “[A]t summary judgment, ... if direct evidence produced by the moving party conflicts with 12 direct evidence produced by the nonmoving party, the judge must assume the truth of the 13 evidence set forth by the nonmoving party with respect to that fact.” T.W. Elec. Serv., Inc. v.
 14 Pacific Elec. Contractors Ass’n, 809 F.2d 626, 630-31 (9th Cir. 1987) (citations omitted).
 15 Likewise, the Court may not “disregard direct evidence on the ground that no reasonable jury 16 would believe it.” Leslie, 198 F.3d at 1158 (citing T.W. Elec. Serv., 809 F.2d at 631 n.3); see 17 also McLaughlin v. Liu, 849 F.2d 1205, 1207-08 (9th Cir. 1988) (reversing a district court’s 18 summary judgment in favor of the plaintiff where the court disregarded the defendant’s sworn 19 declaration and sworn answers to interrogatories as “implausible”).

20 Furman’s affidavit and testimony create an issue of fact as to whether Furman believed 21 that “persuasive evidence of an arrangement exist[ed]” (i.e., the first element of SOP 97-2)
 22 when Island Pacific recognized revenue from the QQQ transactions. (Pl.’s Ex. 18 at 749-50 23 (SOP 97-2 ¶ .08)). Furman’s beliefs may have been negligent and unreasonable, but in light
 24 of the evidence of Furman’s reliance on Schechter and other more-senior members of Island 25 Pacific’s management team, the Court cannot find as a matter of law that it shows “a mental 26 state embracing intent to deceive, manipulate, or defraud.” Ernst & Ernst v. Hochfelder, 425 27 U.S. 185, 193 n.12 (1976); see also Rubera, 350 F.3d at 1094-95 (“Recklessness satisfies the 28 scienter requirement only to the extent that it reflects some degree of intentional or conscious misconduct.”) (emphasis added) (quotation omitted).

iv. Materiality

Even if the SEC had demonstrated, as a matter of law, Furman’s scienter on the issue of whether there was “persuasive evidence of an arrangement” as of the last day of Q2 2004 and Q3 2004, there would be an issue of fact as to whether the alleged misstatement that revenue was recognized in accordance with SOP 97-2 was material.

“The antifraud provisions’ materiality element is satisfied only if there is a substantial likelihood that the disclosure of the omitted fact would have been viewed by the reasonable investor as having significantly altered the total mix of information made available.” SEC v. Phan, 500 F.3d 895, 908 (9th Cir. 2007) (quotations omitted). “Determining materiality in securities fraud cases ‘should ordinarily be left to the trier of fact.’” Id. (quoting In re Apple Computer Sec. Litig., 886 F.2d 1109, 1113 (9th Cir. 1989)). “The determination [of materiality] requires delicate assessments of the inferences a ‘reasonable shareholder’ would draw from a given set of facts and the significance of those inferences to him, and these assessments are peculiarly ones for the trier of fact. Only if the established omissions are so obviously important to an investor, that reasonable minds cannot differ on the question of materiality is the ultimate issue of materiality appropriately resolved as a matter of law by summary judgment.” TSC Indus., Inc. v. Northway, Inc., 426 U.S. 438, 450 (1976).

In TSC Industries, the Supreme Court held that the materiality of the difference between payment in warrants worth $5.25 each and warrants worth $3.50 each was a question of fact for the jury. See id. at 459-60. In Phan, the Ninth Circuit reversed a grant of summary judgment for the SEC on a Section 10(b) claim:

Although financial logic dictates that a $1.25 million promissory note is less valuable than $1.25 million in cash, given the risks inherent in a loan and the time value of money, the record contains no evidence about the value of this $1.25 million note at the time the transaction was restructured. Therefore, we have no way to know if Hartcourt’s decision to accept a loan as payment was the equivalent of agreeing to get nothing close to full payment for the shares, or represented only a minor decrease in payment that might well be an inconsequential change in the risk that investors already realized they faced by investing in the unproven company. Accordingly, we cannot say as a matter of law, unaided by any evidence in the record, that an investor would view the total mix of information about Hartcourt as significantly altered by this misstatement, standing alone.

1 Phan, 500 F.3d at 911 (quotation omitted).

2 The SEC contends that the “overstatements of revenue [in] Island Pacific’s financial 3 statements during its second and third quarter fiscal 2004 and for its fiscal 2004 were material
4 because they misrepresented and concealed Island Pacific’s true (poor) financial performance.”
5 (Doc. # 33-2 at 6). Although “the materiality of information relating to financial condition, 6 solvency and profitability is not subject to serious challenge,” SEC v. Murphy, 626 F.2d 633,
7 653 (9th Cir. 1980) (citation omitted), the record contains sufficient evidence for a reasonable 8 jury to find either that the QQQ transactions were legitimate transactions or that Furman was 9 misled into believing them to be legitimate transactions, as discussed above.

10 The issue at this stage is whether an investor would consider the recognition of 11 revenue—as to otherwise legitimate transactions—at least 13 days prior to the License 12 Agreement being put in writing and at least 28 days prior to the Sublicense Agreement being 13 put in writing to be material. (Pl.’s Ex. 13A at 234, 241 (October 13, 2003 email from Furman
14 to Tran with an attached copy of the License Agreement containing a $3.9 million purchase 15 price); Pl.’s Ex. 26 at 879 (January 28, 2004 email from Dietzler to Tran and Furman with an 16 attached copy of the Sublicense Agreement)). There also is an issue as to whether an investor
17 would consider the difference between the $3.25 million License Agreement which a jury
18 could find was signed by both parties as of the end of Q2 2004 (Pl.’s Ex. 8) and the $3.9
19 million License Agreement which ultimately was recognized by Island Pacific in Q2 2004.⁶

20 The SEC has submitted no evidence demonstrating the materiality of recognizing 21 revenue approximately a month earlier than GAAP would allow or the difference between a 22 $3.25 million License Agreement and a $3.9 million License Agreement. See Phan, 500 F.3d 23 at 910-11 (“The SEC, which both bears the burden of proof and is the party moving for 24

25 ⁶ The difference between the $3.25 million License Agreement signed prior to the end
26 of Q2 2004 and the $3.9 million License Agreement ultimately recognized by Island Pacific 27 as revenue is the addition of the $650,000 “Direct” software to the License Agreement.
28 (Compare Pl.’s Ex. 8 at 198-99 (version of the License Agreement signed by both parties, referencing only the “Host” software, with a $3.25 million licensing fee), with Pl.’s Ex. 13A at 240-41 (unsigned version of the License Agreement emailed by Furman on October 13, 2003, referencing the “Host” software, with a $3.25 licensing fee, and the “Direct” software, with a $650,000 licensing fee)).

summary judgment, submitted no evidence to the district court demonstrating the materiality of the misstatement about the payment terms.... We would have to engage in rank speculation to determine the inference that investors would have drawn....”). Based upon the evidence in the record, the Court cannot find as a matter of law that the alleged misstatements at issue were material.

b. Remaining Elements of SOP 97-2

The record contains sufficient evidence to create an issue of fact as to whether Furman believed the final three elements of SOP 97-2 were satisfied at the time Island Pacific recognized revenue for the QQQ transactions. There is evidence from which a reasonable jury could find that Furman believed that (1) delivery had occurred (Furman Decl. ¶ 15, Doc. # 36-3 (Furman believed Island Pacific shipped both the Host and Direct software); Rosen Dep. at 62, Pl.’s Ex. 6 (Island Pacific shipped software to QQQ)); (2) the vendor’s fee was fixed and determinable (Furman Decl. ¶ 13, Doc. # 36-3 (Furman believed the License Agreement had a $3.9 million sales price); Furman Ex. 71 at 1098 (Furman and Dietzler emails indicating that the fee according to the License Agreement was $3.9 million); cf. Pl.’s Ex. 24 at 858 (executed Sublicense Agreement references QQQ’s $3.9 million indebtedness to Island Pacific));⁷ and (3) collectability was probable (Furman Decl. ¶¶ 16-17, 21, Doc. # 36-3 (Furman received assurances from Schechter about QQQ’s ability and willingness to pay according to the License Agreement); Furman Test. at 233, Pl.’s Ex. 5 (Furman was told that QQQ could not make the first payment according to the License Agreement because QQQ’s controller had erroneously deposited the funds into a money market account); Pl.’s Ex. 35 at 946 (memorandum stating Beck granted an extension to QQQ to make the first payment according to the License Agreement); Furman Test. at 229, Pl.’s Ex. 5 (“most of the information” in the memorandum came from Beck and Braun)).

⁷ SOP 97-2 provides that “any extended payment terms in software licensing arrangements may indicate that the fee is not fixed or determinable,” and “if payment of a significant portion of the software licensing fee is not due until more than 12 months after delivery, the licensing fee should be presumed not to be fixed or determinable.” (Pl.’s Ex. 18 at 755, SOP 97-2 ¶ .28 (emphasis in original)). There is no evidence that, at the time revenue was recognized or thereafter, either party envisioned the royalty payments to be a “significant portion” of the licensing fees for either the License Agreement or the Sublicense Agreement.

2. Dietzler's Email

The SEC has produced uncontroverted evidence establishing that Furman knew that Dietzler had alleged "potential fraud" with regard to the QQQ transactions (Furman Dep. at 78, Pl.'s Ex. 3), but Furman nevertheless represented to the auditors eight days later that he had no knowledge of any allegations of "suspected fraud ... received in communications from employees [or] former employees." (Pl.'s Ex. 32 at 923). This evidence warrants summary judgment on the SEC's books and records claims against Furman, see infra, and prevents application of the defense of reliance on professional assistance, see SEC v. Goldfield Mines, 758 F.2d 459, 467 (9th Cir. 1985) (in order to establish the defense, a defendant must show he "made complete disclosure" to the professional). However, it is insufficient to establish, as a matter of law, scienter for the SEC's Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 claim against Furman.

Viewing the evidence in the light most favorable to Furman, Dietzler's February 4, 2004 email recognizes that the QQQ transactions might be legitimate; Dietzler was concerned about the "avoid[ing] even the appearance of irregularity." (Pl.'s Ex. 28 at 906). Dietzler wrote:

Irrespective of the legitimacy of the foregoing transactions, the totality of the surrounding circumstances creates the appearance that the transactions were intended merely to boost the reportable revenue of Island Pacific in the quarter ended September 2003. Further, the timing of the second QQQ transaction is in fact in the current quarter, not the quarter ended December 31, 2003.... To ensure compliance with financial reporting rules, it would seem prudent that revenue recognition policies err on the conservative side, so as to avoid even the appearance of irregularity.

Id. (emphasis added). In a conversation with Furman prior to sending the February 4, 2004 email, Dietzler "brought up the fact that ... it looks weird rather than these are just made-up transactions." (Furman Dep. at 78, Pl.'s Ex. 3).

As set forth above, a reasonable jury could find that the QQQ transactions were legitimate, and that Furman believed that the revenue related to the transactions were recognized in the proper quarter. Furman was Dietzler's supervisor and Furman had more contact with Schechter, Braun and Beck than did Dietzler. Furman might reasonably believe that he knew more about the QQQ transactions than Dietzler, and therefore Furman's beliefs about the legitimacy of the QQQ transactions and the timing of the revenue recognition were

1 more accurate than Dietzler's. A reasonable jury could find that, despite Furman's
2 misrepresentation to the auditors regarding Dietzler's email, Furman did not make
3 misrepresentations with scienter in Island Pacific's annual and quarterly reports (Forms 10-K 4 and 10-Q), press releases and conference calls.

5 Even if Furman acted with scienter when he made the alleged misrepresentations that 6 revenue was recognized in accordance with GAAP, there is an issue of fact as to the 7 materiality of the alleged misrepresentations. Alternatively, there is an issue of fact as to the 8 materiality of the difference between the $3.25 million License Agreement which a jury could 9 find was signed by both parties as of the end of Q2 2004 (Pl.'s Ex. 8) and the $3.9 million 10 License Agreement which was recognized by Island Pacific in Q2 2004.

11 Finally, as discussed below, Furman's misrepresentation to the auditors that he had no 12 knowledge of any allegations of "suspected fraud ... received in communications from 13 employees [or] former employees" (Pl.'s Ex. 32 at 923) warrants summary judgment on the 14 SEC's books and records claims against Furman. The "in connection with the purchase or sale
15 of any security" requirement for Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 liability can satisfied by "fraud 16 ... involv[ing] public dissemination in a document such as a press release, annual report, 17 investment prospectus or other such document on which an investor would presumably rely...."
18 Rana Research, 8 F.3d at 1362 (emphasis added); see also S.E.C. v. Phan, 500 F.3d 895, 908 19 (9th Cir. 2007) ("Even though the transaction registered by the S-8 form did not involve 20 distribution of shares to the public market, the SEC can prove fraud by showing that an 21 average investor would find any misstatements that the form contained to be material because 22 the form was publicly disseminated.") (emphasis added). The SEC has not shown that the "in 23 connection with" requirement would be satisfied when the misrepresentation is made in a non- 24 public letter to auditors. Cf. SEC v. Zandford, 535 U.S. 813, 820 (2002) ("[T]he statute must 25 not be construed so broadly as to convert every common-law fraud that happens to involve 26 securities into a violation of § 10(b)....") (citation omitted). Furman's misrepresentation to the 27 auditors is insufficient to warrant summary judgment on the Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 28 claims.

1 The SEC's Motion for Summary Judgment as to the Section 10(b) and Rule 10b-5 2 claims against Furman is denied.

3 B. Section 20(e)

4 The SEC moves for summary judgment on its claim that Furman aided and abetted 5 Island Pacific's violations of the issuer reporting requirements of Section 13(a) of the 6 Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78m(a), and Rules 12b-20, 13a-1 and 13a-13 thereunder, 17 C.F.R.
7 §§ 240.12b-20, 13a-1 & 13a-13. The SEC brings its aiding and abetting claim pursuant to 8 Section 20(e) of the Exchange Act, which provides: "[A]ny person that knowingly provides 9 substantial assistance to another person in violation of a provision of this chapter, or of any 10 rule or regulation issued under this chapter, shall be deemed to be in violation of such 11 provision to the same extent as the person to whom such assistance is provided." 15 U.S.C.
12 § 78t(e). "In order to find that [an individual defendant] aided and abetted [a company]'s 13 violation of federal securities laws, it must be found that: (1) [the company] violated the 14 relevant securities laws; (2) [the individual defendant] had knowledge of the primary violation
15 and of his or her own role in furthering it; and (3) [the individual defendant] provided 16 substantial assistance in the primary violation." Ponce v. SEC, 345 F.3d 722, 737 (9th Cir.
17 2003) (citations omitted).

18 Issuers of securities registered pursuant to Section 12 of the Exchange Act are required
19 to file annual Forms 10-K and quarterly Forms 10-Q with the Commission. See Section 13(a) 20 of the Exchange Act, 15 U.S.C. § 78m(a), and Rules 13a-1 and 13a-13 thereunder, 17 C.F.R.
21 §§ 240.13a-1 & 240.13a-13; see also 17 C.F.R. § 240.12b-20 ("In addition to the information
22 expressly required to be included in a statement or report, there shall be added such further 23 material information, if any, as may be necessary to make the required statements, in the light 24 of the circumstances under which they are made not misleading."). These provisions require 25 that the reports filed be prepared in conformity with GAAP. See Ponce, 345 F.3d at 735. In 26 order to prove a violation of these provisions by Island Pacific, the SEC does not need to show
27 scienter. See id. at 737 n.10 ("[I]n at least one proceeding the SEC has held that a scienter 28 requirement is not necessary since Section 13(a) violations do not require scienter.") (citing

1 In the Matter of WSF Corp., 2002 WL 917293, at *6 (SEC, May 8, 2002) (“Violations of 2 Exchange Act Section 13(a) do not require a finding of scienter.”)).

3 Even if Island Pacific’s Forms 10-Q and Form 10-K were not prepared in conformity
4 with GAAP, for the reasons discussed above, there is an issue of fact as to whether Furman 5 “had knowledge of the primary violation.” Ponce, 345 F.3d at 737. The SEC’s Motion for 6 Summary Judgment as to the Section 20(e) claim against Furman is denied.

7 C. Books and Records Provisions

8 1. Section 13(b)(5)

9 Section 13(b)(5) of the Exchange Act provides that “[n]o person shall knowingly 10 circumvent or knowingly fail to implement a system of internal accounting controls or 11 knowingly falsify any book, record, or account.” 15 U.S.C. § 78m(b)(5). Section 13(b)(5)
12 requires a showing of scienter. See SEC v. Hilsenrath, No. C03-3252, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
13 50021, at *19 (N.D. Cal., May 30, 2008). Evidence showing that a person misled company 14 auditors can support a claim that the person knowingly circumvented a company’s system of 15 internal accounting controls. Cf. SEC v. Shapiro, No. 4:05cv364, 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS
16 17039, at *15 (E.D. Tex., Mar. 5, 2008) (“[A]llegations that Abbood misled the accountants 17 or auditors about the existence of side agreements sufficiently supports the claim that he 18 knowingly circumvented Fleming’s system of internal accounting controls....”); SEC v.
19 Solucorp Indus., 274 F. Supp. 2d 379, 421 (S.D.N.Y. 2003) (“Mantia ... misrepresented the 20 veracity of Solucorp’s books and records to Solucorp’s auditor during the course of its audit 21 of Solucorp for fiscal year 1997. As a result, Mantia ... violated Section 13(b)(5) of the 22 Exchange Act....”).

23 Furman testified that he understood that in Dietzler’s February 4, 2004 email, Dietzler
24 was “alleging that there was a potential fraud.” (Furman Dep. at 78, Pl.’s Ex. 3). On February 25 12, 2004 and July 11, 2004, Furman signed management representation letters to Island
26 Pacific’s auditors, stating that he had “no knowledge of any allegations of fraud or suspected 27 fraud affecting the Company received in communications from employees, [or] former 28 employees.” (Pl.’s Ex. 32 at 923-24; Pl.’s Ex. 36 at 951). The SEC has shown, as a matter of

1 law, that Furman signed the management representation letters knowing they contained a false
 2 and/or misleading statement concerning “allegations of ... suspected fraud affecting the 3 Company.” (Id.) By knowingly submitting false and/or misleading management
 4 representation letters to Island Pacific’s auditors, Furman “knowingly circumvent[ed] ... a 5 system of internal accounting controls....” 15 U.S.C. § 78m(b)(5). The SEC’s Motion for 6 Summary Judgment as to the claim that Furman violated Section 13(b)(5) is granted.

7 2. Rule 13b2-1

8 Rule 13b2-1 provides that “[n]o person shall directly or indirectly, falsify or cause to 9 be falsified, any book, record or account.” 17 C.F.R. § 240.13b2-1. The SEC does not need 10 to show that Furman acted with scienter in order to show he violated Rule 13b2-1. See
 11 McConville v. SEC, 465 F.3d 780, 789 (7th Cir. 2006); SEC v. Hilsenrath, No. C03-3252, 2008
 12 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 50021, at *19 (N.D. Cal., May 30, 2008); SEC v. Softpoint, Inc., 958 F.
 13 Supp. 846, 865-66 (S.D.N.Y. 1997).

14 The term “records” includes “correspondence.” 15 U.S.C. § 78c(a)(37). As discussed
 15 above, on February 12, 2004 and July 11, 2004, Furman signed management representation
 16 letters to Island Pacific’s auditors, which contained the false statement that Furman had “no 17 knowledge of any allegations of fraud or suspected fraud affecting the Company received in 18 communications from employees, [or] former employees.” (Pl.’s Ex. 32 at 923-24; Pl.’s Ex.
 19 36 at 951). Therefore, the SEC has shown, as a matter of law, that Furman falsified a “record” 20 in violation of Rule 13b2-1.

21 The SEC’s Motion for Summary Judgment as to the claim that Furman violated Rule 22 13b2-1 is granted.

23 3. Rule 13b2-2

24 Rule 13b2-2 provides: “No director or officer of an issuer shall, directly or indirectly 25 ... make or cause to be made a materially false or misleading statement to an accountant in 26 connection with ... [a]ny audit, review or examination of the financial statements of the 27 issuer....” 17 C.F.R. § 240.13b2-2.

28 As discussed above, on February 12, 2004 and July 11, 2004, Furman signed

1 management representation letters to Island Pacific's auditors, which contained the materially
 2 false and/or misleading statement that Furman had "no knowledge of any allegations of fraud
 3 or suspected fraud affecting the Company received in communications from employees, [or] 4 former employees." (Pl.'s Ex. 32 at 923-24; Pl.'s Ex. 36 at 951). The evidence establishes 5 that, as matter of law, Furman violated Rule 13b2-2. The SEC's Motion for Summary
 6 Judgment as to the claim that Furman violated Rule 13b2-2 is granted.

7 D. Rule 13a-14

8 Rule 13a-14 provides: "Each report ... filed on Form 10-Q [or] Form 10-K ... under 9 Section 13(a) of the Act ... must include certifications.... Each principal executive and 10 principal financial officer of the issuer ... must sign a certification." 17 C.F.R. §
 11 240.13a-14(a).⁸ Among the certifications made by Furman on the Forms 10-Q and the Form
 12 10-K was a certification that: "Based on my knowledge," the Forms 10-Q and Form 10-K did 13 not contain any untrue statement of a material fact or omit to state a material fact necessary in 14 order to make the statements made not misleading, and the Forms 10-Q and Form 10-K fairly 15 presented Island Pacific's financial condition and results of operations. (Pl.'s Ex. 15 at 416-17, 16 419; Pl.'s Ex. 16 at 490-91; Pl.'s Ex. 17 at 744-45). For the reasons discussed above, there is 17 an issue of fact as to whether Furman's certifications were false, "[b]ased on [his] knowledge."
 18 The SEC's Motion for Summary Judgment as to the Rule 13a-14 claim against Furman is 19 denied.

20 E. Evidentiary Objections

21 All objections to evidentiary materials cited in this Order are overruled. All objections 22 to evidentiary materials not cited in this Order are denied as moot.

23 //

24 //

25
 26 ⁸ There is a conflict among courts as to whether a violation of the certification 27 requirement of Rule 13a-14 supports a separate cause of action. Compare SEC v. Black, No.
 28 04C7377, 2008 WL 4394891, at *16-17 (N.D. Ill., Sept. 24, 2008) ("[A] false ... certification does not state an independent violation of the securities law."), with SEC v. Indigenous Global Dev. Corp., 2008 U.S. Dist. LEXIS 50434 (N.D. Cal., June 30, 2008) (granting summary judgment for the SEC for a defendant's violation of Rule 13a-14 and Section 13(a) of the Exchange Act). The Court does not decide the issue at this time.

2 V. Conclusion

3 IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that the SEC's Motion for Summary Judgment against 4 Furman is GRANTED in part and DENIED in part. (Doc. # 33). The SEC's Motion for 5 Summary Judgment is GRANTED as to the following claims against Furman: Section 6 13(b)(5), Rule 13b2-1, and Rule 13b2-2. The SEC's Motion for Summary Judgment is 7 DENIED as to the following claims against Furman: Section 10(b), Rule 10b-5, Section 20(e), 8 and Rule 13a-14.

9 IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that all remaining dates in the Case Management 10 Conference Order (Doc. # 22) are reset as follows.

11 No Memoranda of Law or Contentions of Fact are to be filed if this case is tried to a 12 jury. If this case is tried to the Court, counsel shall serve on each other and file their 13 memoranda of contentions of fact and law in compliance with Local Rule 16.1(f)(2) on or 14 before January 11, 2010. In any event, on or before this date, all parties or their counsel shall 15 also fully comply with the pretrial disclosure requirements of Rule 26(a)(3) of the Federal 16 Rules of Civil Procedure.

17 Counsel shall confer and take the action required by Local Rule 16.1(f)(4) on or before 18 January 19, 2010. The parties shall meet and confer and prepare a proposed pretrial order.
19 At this meeting, counsel shall discuss and attempt to enter into stipulations and agreements
20 resulting in simplification of the triable issues. Counsel shall exchange copies and/or display
21 all exhibits other than those to be used for impeachment, lists of witnesses and their addresses 22 including experts who will be called to testify, and written contentions of applicable facts and 23 law. The exhibits shall be prepared in accordance with Local Rule 16.1(f)(2)(c). Counsel shall 24 cooperate in the preparation of the proposed final pretrial conference order.

25 The proposed final pretrial conference order, including written objections, if any, to any 26 party's Fed. R. Civ. P. 26(a)(3) pretrial disclosures, shall be prepared, served, and filed on or 27 before January 25, 2010 and shall be in the form prescribed in and in compliance with Local 28 Rule 16.1(f)(6). Any objections shall comply with the requirements of Fed. R. Civ. P.

1 26(a)(3). The failure to file written objections to a party's pretrial disclosures may result in 2 the waiver of such objections, with the exception of those made pursuant to Rules 402
3 (relevance) and 403 (prejudice, confusion or waste of time) of the Federal Rules of Evidence.

4 The Final Pretrial Conference shall be held on February 1, 2010, at 11:00 a.m. in 5 Courtroom 4.
